Mayor declares emergency

City recovering from heavy rains

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley declared an emergency situation in Romulus last week, as a result of the worst flooding to hit the city in at least 10 years.

Some 500 Romulus home sites were damaged by flood waters, ranging in severity from ruined gardens and lawns to several feet of water in basements.

While another 500 homes were flooded in nearby Dearborn Heights and Allen park, Taylor, with some 8,000 homes hit by flood waters, took the brunt of the storms.

The flash flooding, which hit the northeast section of the city the hardest, was the result of unusually heavy rainfalls on Monday and Wednesday of last week. Up to four inches of water was dumped on the already soggy city in only a few hours on Wednesday, causing drainage systems to backup and overflow.

The hardest hit neighborhood, located just north of I-94 between Middlebelt and Merriman roads, began overflowing on Wednesday evening, into the Metro airport entrance under I-94 at Merriman Road, causing massive traffic jams and backups lasting until Friday.

Metro Airport was completely shut off from its major entrances at Merriman and Middlebelt roads, which prompted hundreds of travelers to simply park their cars along I-94 or other secondary roads and hike several miles into the airport. Motorists and air travelers alike were forced to abandon stalled cars submerged in flood waters. All underpasses to Metro Airport from Merriman to Telegraph were blocked off.

Even though several airlines delayed flights up to several hours, many passengers were unable to reach the terminals in time to make their plane.

On Thursday, after touring several of the worst hit subdivisions and declaring a local emergency, Mayor Oakley telephoned the Governor's office in Lansing and the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness to seek relief for the flooded areas.

Wayne County cooperated by turning off several pumping stations in the airport area, which allowed the back up water in Romulus to enter the airport system and be pumped out of the city. The pumps were restarted several hours later, sending the flood waters through the downriver creek system into the Rouge and Detroit rivers.

As of Monday, July 16, 1979, only the Highland Industrial Complex, located near Harrison and Wick roads, still reported several inches of water covering its property.

As Mayor Oakley explained, "Romulus uses the same flood plain as several other cities to the east. Twenty years ago, before major development in these areas, the system could generally handle large rainfalls. However, with the rapid growth and development of Romulus and some of its downriver neighbors, it is obvious we need a controlled drainage system, "a super ditch', to handle situations like last week's."

"I am hopeful the emergency action I have requested from higher governmental funding sources will result in financial assistance to get such a project funded in Romulus," he concluded.

The mayor estimated the damage to city roads, pumps, ditches and streets would run into the thousands of dollars.

Because of the Mayor's declaration of emergency, residents may be eligible for low-interest home repair loans from the state. A spokesman from the Governor's office said a decision would be made this week, with an announcement in this paper. If the measure is approved by the Governor, residents would be eligible for loans at 7 3/4 percent, payable over 30 years.

Mayor William M. Oakley and DPW Director David Paul hold a mid-stream conference in what is normally Hollywood Street in Romulus following last week's flooding of sections in the northeast part of the city. The flood, said to be the worst in 10 years, prompted the mayor to declare an emergency situation, paving the way for financial relief to flood victims from the state, should the Governor approve the request. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Offenders to be disciplined

Rowdyism on buses target of new policy

Rowdyism and unruly behavior on Romulus Community School buses, a perennial problem according to school authorities, may be nipped in the bud this coming school year.

Successful implementation of a new policy adopted by the Romulus school board in May could be the solution to stopping harrassment of students traveling to school on buses and headaches for drivers otherwise occupied with driving duties.

Supt. James Garfield outlined the new board policy as follows:

- 1) Students failing to properly identify themselves upon request from the bus driver or other authorized school personnel will be subject to disciplinary action;
- 2) Proper identification is defined as verbally giving student's first and last name, with verification by the student's ID card, driver's license, or other legitimate forms of identification;
- 3) Students will be assigned a specific seat on school buses.

"This action was adopted to strengthen existing board policy and to give bus drivers more control over students riding in their buses," the superintendent explained.

Garfield said students violating the new policy will be disciplined in proportion to the severity of their wrongdoings.

Adoption of the new bus policy by the school board came after review and study of recommendations made by a committee which had studied the board's discipline policy, Garfield said.

Morgan top challenger

Mayor's race thinning out

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

With the July 23 deadline for filing as a nominee for elective office in the Romulus primary election Sept. 10 less than a week away, 27 persons have taken out circulating petitions, but only four have actually filed them with the city clerk's office.

The biggest political plum, the mayor's office, thus far has seen none of the five candidates circulating petitions actually file them for the record, including Mayor William M. Oakley, who has announced he will seek re-election.

Taking petitions from the clerk's office are: Oakley, Ed Rush, Mel Morgan, Ed Fall and Robert Plank. Ex-Mayor James C. Stewart recently withdrew from the race after taking out a petition and has voiced his support for Morgan.

Morgan, a prominent business promoter and developer, is expected to give Oakley a tough battle. In his announcement to seek the city's highest elective office, he vowed a clean campaign that would be waged as an all-out effort to unseat Oakley.

Both Rust and Fall also took out petitions for council, and indications are they will concentrate their efforts for that office rather than try to win the mayor's seat.

Rush, owner of a family florist business, was successful in a suit filed last year in which he charged mayor and council with holding a closed meeting in violation of the new state Open Meetings Act.

A Wayne County Circuit Court judge issued an injunction against such further meetings and the case came to an end a month ago when council agreed to pay Rush's attorney fees upon advice of the city council.

Council was advised it had little chance to win the case and to pay Rush's legal fees after he agreed not to pursue the matter further.

Fall was fired early this year by Oakley as director of the city building department and reports are he is working to defeat the mayor's re-election bid.

Plank, a political unknown, is given no chance to win the mayoral nomination.

With Rush and Fall out of the picture as serious candidates for mayor, Oakley's chief opposition will be Morgan. At 46 years of age, and with reported strong financial backing, the businessman is considered by those close to the political scene in Romulus to be a formidable threat to a second term for Oakley.

In the race for the nomination for city clerk, only Jerry Kubiak has filed. Kubiak is former director of safety and regulations in the city. Although incumbent Leonard J. Folmar has not filed, he is expected to do so. In office for nearly eight years, Folmar has proved to be a strong candidate in previous elections and the coming primary election should see him as one of the two nominees

An exciting race is shaping up for the office of city treasurer with incumbent Helen Gallien thus far being challenged by council member Beverly McAnally and former treasurer John Lewkowicz. Lewkowicz, however, has not filed officially.

The contest for seven seats on city council to date shows five incumbents among 17 persons in the Avery again will head school bd.

Wayne Avery retained the presidency of the Romulus school board last week in an organizational election that saw Shirley Lombardi also keep her office of secretary.

Switching offices were Michael Woods, new board vice president, and Margaret Cole, new treasurer.

Also on the seven-member board are Theresa Kraft, Jo Ann Marvicsin and Evelyn Hopewell.

New VB Edison office to serve Romulus

Hopefully by the spring of next year, 250 Detroit Edison employees will be hard at work in the giant utility's huge new Wayne Division Headquarters in Van Buren Township.

Company and Van Buren officials Thursday morning joined in breaking ground for the 50,000 square-foot structure, which will be located on 30 acres of Edison owned land on the east side of Haggerty Road just south of Ecorse Road.

Estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $3 million, the one story brick and block building will be the nucleus of Edison's southernmost division and will serve western Wayne and northern Monroe counties.

According to Robert H. Kelley, Wayne Division manager, the new headquarters will house 250 employees from five functional groups which engineer, design and build electrical facilities and provide service for customers in the Wayne Division area.

The new building will be built by Michael T. Assarian, owner of MTA Construction of Southfield, and will be owned by Edward Cantor, who will lease it to Edison for a 25-year period.

Dignitaries at the groundbreaking ceremony included: Sup. Pat Cullin, Clerk Doreen Craven, and trustees Donna Hall, Fred Domen and Jerry Maton; Kelley and a host of Edison officials; Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson; and several department heads from the township.

Commenting on the new headquarters, Kelley said, "The building will house the customer telephone center with access to computerized customer records, radio dispatch of field crews, and appliance and meter repair shops for the entire division, which includes western Wayne and northern Monroe counties.

"It is more favorably located for field personnel to provide service to Wayne Division customers than the presently leased space in the city of Taylor."

Kelley said the new structure will contain a meeting room facility for occasional use by community groups such as neighborhood associations, as well as for use by company personnel.

He added that sufficient parking space will be provided for company employees and visitors. In addition, site space left over will accommodate an operational center for overhead and underground line crews should that facility be required in the future.

The company's Wayne Division is almost evenly bisected to the east and west by the new I-275 Expressway and is one of utility's six such divisions covering a total area of 800 square miles and 32 communities.

The College Scene

Gierak named to Dean's List at Northwood Institute

Robert J. Gierak of Romulus has been named to the Dean's List for the spring term at Northwood Institute, located in Midland, Mich. To achieve Dean's List recognition, Gierak had to earn a 3.0

or better grade point average. Northwood Institute is a private, co-educational accredited college, specializing in practical career preparation in business fields where there are job opportunities. Also on the college scene:

Janet Wilson of Joan Street, Romulus, has been named a Regents-Alumni Scholar at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

She was among 129 outstanding Michigan high school graduates recognized by the university. She was selected based on her superior academic achievement and her potential contribution to the scholarly community of the university.

Richard R. Muse of Main Street, Belleville, is among practicing optometrists and ophthalmologists who took specialized continuing education courses at the Indiana University School of Optometry. Muse attended a course in June on Geriatric and low vision care. The course included examination techniques and prescription principles for dealing with elderly patients with subnormal vision.

Six Belleville-Romulus high school graduates are among 866 outstanding graduates in the state who have been named as Regents-Alumni Scholars by the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

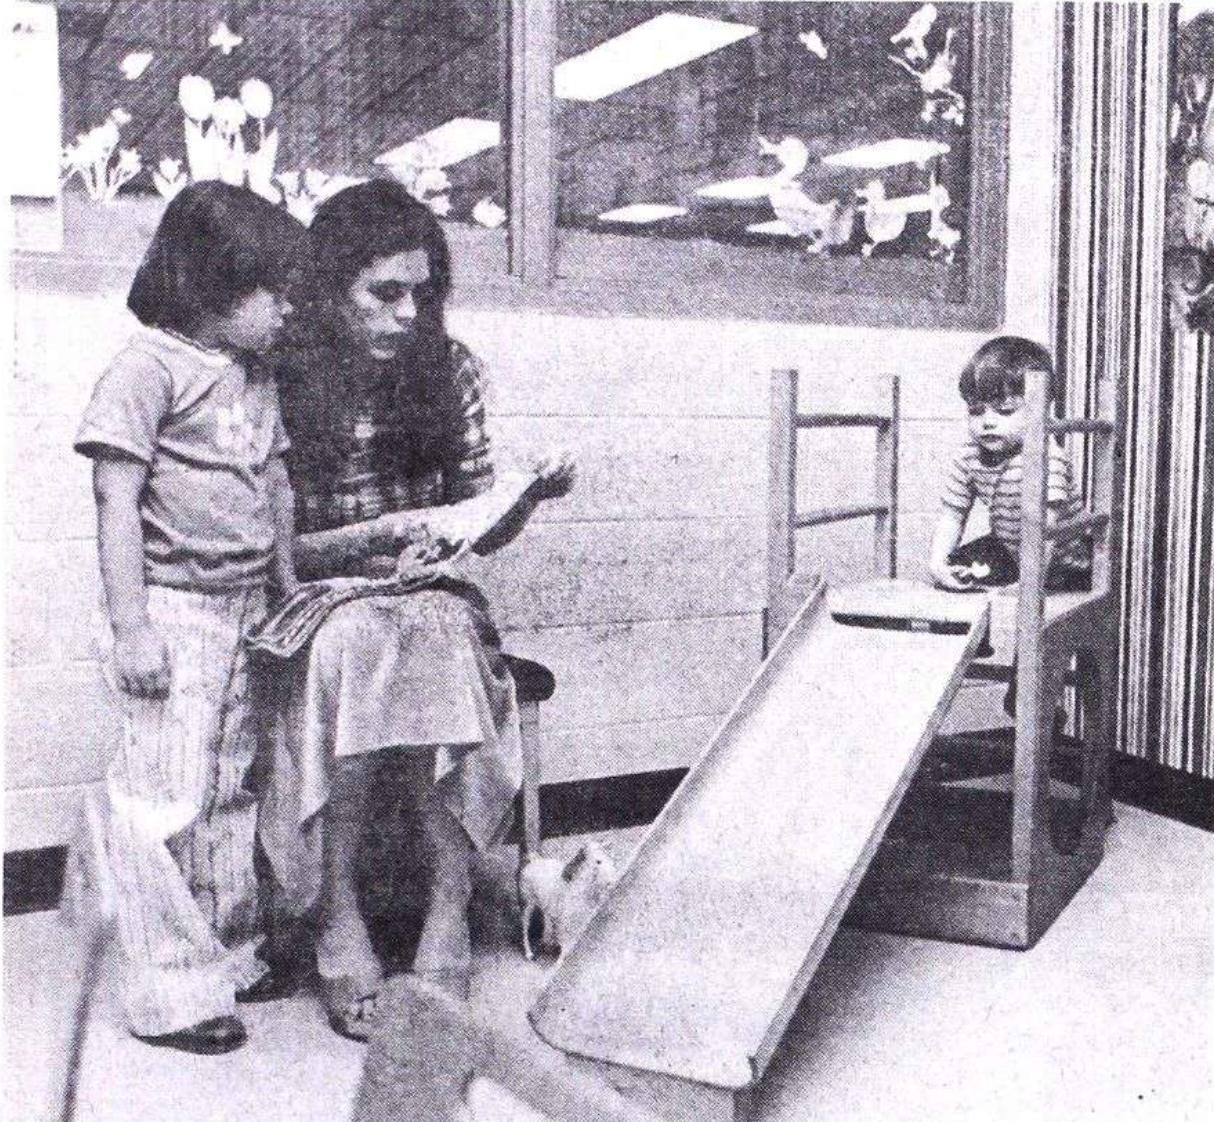

Selected for their "superior academic achievement and their potential contribution to the scholarly community" of the university were Duane Moffat of Pennsylvania Road, Romulus; Shelley Ott of Lake Villa Drive, Belleville; Craig Koss of Riggs Road, Belleville; Michael Chen of Belleville Road, Belleville; Eve Boyd of West Huron River Drive, Belleville; and Linda Bonanni of Wilmut Road, Belleville.

Named to the winter semester honors list at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant were Brian Sugden of Fret Road, Belleville, a senior; and Anthony Suessine or Niagara, Romulus, a sophomore.

They were chosen for the listing from the top 10 percent of their respective classes and had to compete 12 letter-grade hours or more of on-campus credit during the semester while maintaining a 3.50 grade point average or better.

Receiving undergraduate degrees from Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant at the conclusion of the academic year in May were Sharon Johnson of Beech Daly, Romulus, bachelor of arts in journalism; Kenneth Konarska of King Road, Romulus, bachelor of science in education; and Theresa Renke of St. Aloysius, Romulus, bachelor of arts in health education.

Helping out

Volunteering in the Romulus district office of the Michigan Department of Social Services — Wayne County is Canton resident Mrs. Daniel Kotcher, of Canterbury Circle. Mrs. Kotcher supervises clients' youngsters in the DSS Children's Corner, while their parents maintain appointments with workers. Additional volunteers are needed for the specially-equipped Children's Corner room in the Romulus office, 38211 Van Born Road, and at other DSS locations throughout the county. Individuals interested in a volunteer assignment should telephone Ellen Devine, volunteer services supervisor, at 256-1597.

Gas shortage hurts MCF volunteers

Metropolitan Detroit's largest volunteer driver program is suffering from gas shortages and high costs, according to William A. Stengle, acting director of the medical division for the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

He explained that 500 foundation volunteers drove 32,000 miles to take 318 patients to hospitals for therapy during the first four months of this year. In 1978, more than 600 drivers helped 528 cancer patients get to hospitals for out-patient chemotherapy and radiation therapy treatments. They drove more than 104,000 miles. All transportation services are provided at the driver's expense, and are free of charge to the patient.

"Many drivers are willing to give their time, but because of the gas crunch, the Michigan Cancer Foundation is searching for an angel to help us defray their personal costs," Stengle said. "In the past several years, the treatment of cancer has shifted from long-term hospitalization to out-patient care," he said. "This allows the patient to remain in familiar and secure home surroundings. Out-patient care often requires frequent trips to the hospital or local treatment center. These treatments are necessary for life or for the control of pain."

Priority is given to patients engaged in a regimen of treatments and unable to drive a car or use public transportation.

Volunteer drivers usually are required between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., weekdays. The trip, which involves picking the patient up at home and driving to and from the hospital, involves one to three hours or more. The foundation's local volunteer transportation chairmen make every attempt to schedule appointments for the convenience of the driver, patient and for an angel to help us defray their personal costs," Stengle said. "Volunteer drivers play an important role in the patient's treatment program," Stengle said. "The driver is the patient's only means of transportation, and the success of the treatments depends upon the patient's ability to keep every appointment."

Assign new deputy for Romulus area

Sgt. John W. Walker has been assigned to work in Romulus with the community relations division of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Commenting on his new assignment, Walker said, "I would like to stress to all of the citizens of Romulus that the sheriff's department is part of the community and not apart from it.

"If any citizen has a question or a problem, I want them to feel free to contact me at my office at 942-9660."

Prior to his new position, Walker served in the jail division briefly following four and a half years with the Metro narcotics squad.

Actually, his new assignment is like coming home. Before joining the narcotics squad, he served on road patrol and periodically worked the Romulus area.

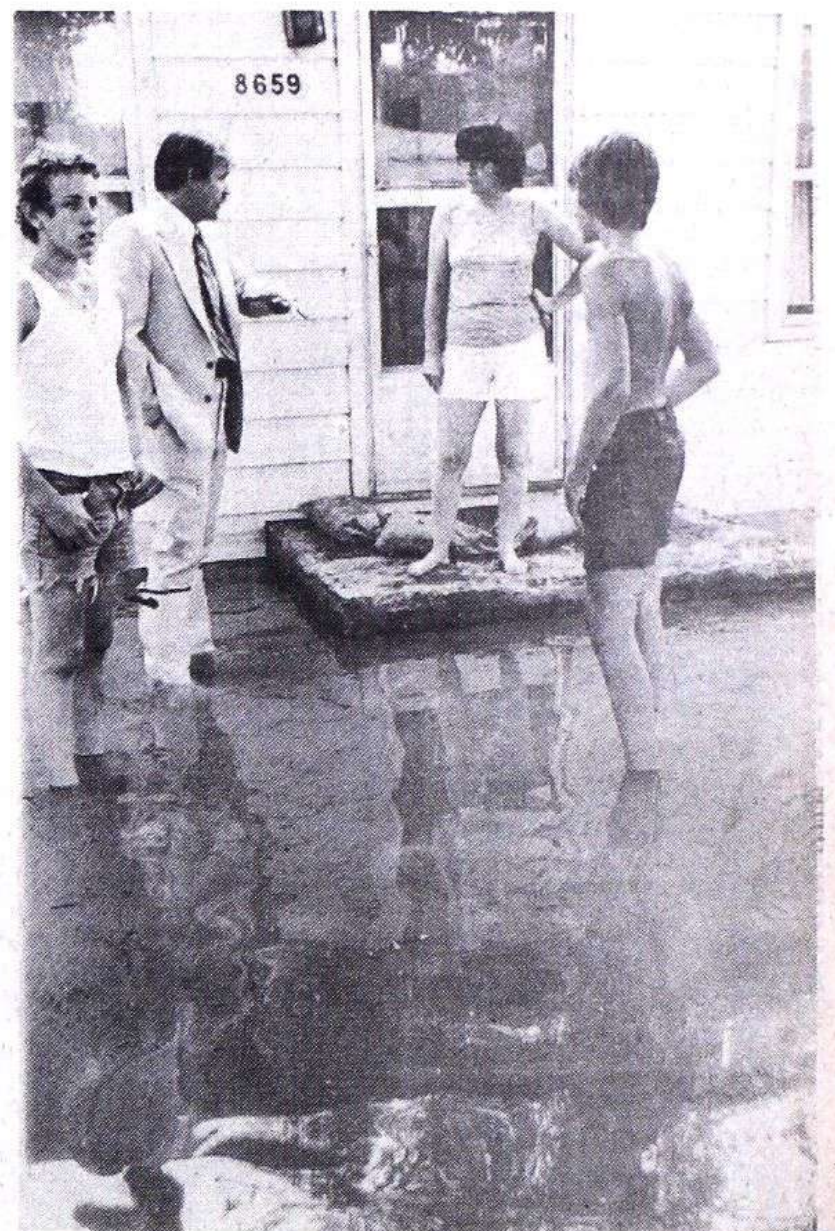

Walker began employment with the sheriff's department March 11, 1971 in the jail division. Currently, he is one class away from his master's degree in criminal justice at the University of Detroit.

"I am looking forward to taking an active role in the many projects now in existence with the community relations bureau, such as neighborhood watch, crime prevention, operation identification, and various safety programs for children in the county," he emphasized.

Victim of flood

Mayor William M. Oakley consults with flood victim Carol Abbey of 8659 Hollywood in Romulus following last week's flooding of the northeast section of the city. Mrs. Abbey, who had to sandbag her home to keep the rising waters from entering her front door, said, "I'm glad the mayor came to inspect the damage; it shows he's concerned over an area forgotten for so many years." Mrs. Abbey, who has lived in Romulus for 11 years, said the flood was the worst she had ever seen. She lost toys, tools, lawn furniture and other articles stored in her garage. Also pictured are neighbor boys Joey Weick (left) and Bob Black. (Photo by Jay Young.)

In brief

Kyko heads Huron bd.

The Board of Education of the Huron School District elected new officers at the organizational meeting Monday night at the board offices.

Leo Kyko was returned to the post of president for the 1979-80 school year. Ed Umin was renamed vice president, and Mary McKinney was retained as secretary, and Bob Lemieux was elected as treasurer. The remaining trustees are George Angel, Bill Manny and Jim Pershing.

In other organizational matters, the board again established its regular meeting date as the third Monday of each month. The meetings will begin at 8 p.m. and will be held in the board of education office, 24820 Merriman Rd., New Boston.

Board members again selected Security Bank and Trust Company of New Boston as the official depository for the general and activity funds, the Manufacturers National Bank for the payroll account, and the Wyandotte Savings Bank to handle the debt retirement funds.

The Lansing office of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg were retained for the school year 1979-80 as legal counsel.

Rotary sets barbeque

Half of a barbecued chicken will be featured on the menu Saturday, July 21, at the annual Romulus Rotary Club barbeque from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Kennedy Park in Romulus.

Costing $3 per person, the annual outdoor feed also will include cole slaw, baked beans and potato chips. For additional information, call Harlan Wichello, club president, at 941-0920.

Set tour for seniors

The Romulus Recreation Department is taking reservations for senior citizens who wish to take a color tour of northern Michigan. Scheduled dates are Oct. 1-4. Cost of the trip is $130 which includes all breakfasts, suppers, lodging and transportation. For further information call 941-0666, extension 67.

Board meetings listed

The Romulus school board has issued a schedule of its meetings for the 1979-80 school year.

The board will meet in 1979 on: July 9 and 23, Aug. 13 and 27, Sept. 10 and 24, Oct. 8 and 22, Nov. 12 and 26, and Dec. 10 and 24. In 1980, the board set sessions for: Jan. 14 and 28, Feb. 11 and 25, March 10 and 24, April 14 and 28, May 12 and 26, and June 9 and 23.

Oakley opens headquarters

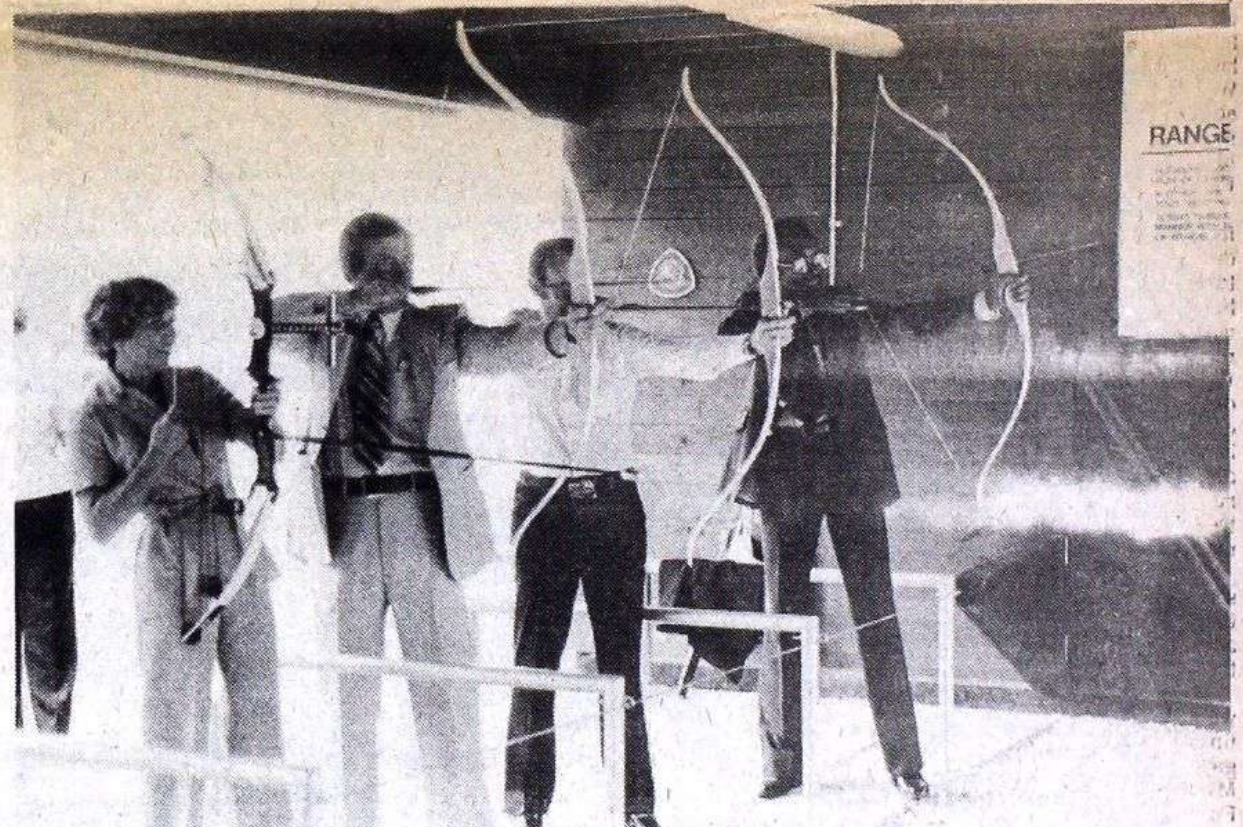

A large group of supporters of Mayor William M. Oakley will gather at the old Township Hall, 36572 Goddard Rd., on Friday, July 20, 1979 at 7 p.m. to officially open the building as the site of the mayor's campaign headquarters and kick off his bid for reelection to a second term in office.

The mayor, elected to his first term 20 months ago, extended an invitation to all citizens willing to work with him to continue "an administration dedicated to progressive, honest and professional government for Romulus".

Free hot dogs and cold beer will be the order of the day next Thursday, July 26, 1979, beginning at 4 p.m. at the Greenlawn Grove picnic area, 16447 Middlebelt Rd., compliments of the Committee to Reelect Mayor William M. Oakley.

Romulus residents are invited to bring their friends and neighbors to meet the mayor and his wife, and enjoy the free refreshments.

For further information, call Oakley for Mayor Headquarters at 942-9910.

No Robin Hoods, but they try

City officials from Romulus display varying degrees of archery prowess at the new city archery range during opening ceremonies last week. The range, located in the Elmer Johnson Park complex on Ogza Road will be open Monday through Saturday to Romulus residents, from noon to 10 p.m. On Mondays and Wednesdays, instructor Dave Barnsdale will give classes from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. for beginners and intermediate level archers. The cost of the classes will be $1 for children, ages 9-17 and $2 for individuals, aged 18 and older. Permission slips, disclaiming city liability, will be required of all participants. Bows and arrows will be furnished by the city, although personal equipment is welcome. Barnsdale said. The marksmen pictured (left to right) are: Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks, Mayor William M. Oakley, Dan Doss, recreation commission member, and Leonard Folmar, city clerk. (Photo by Jay Young.)

School study to save energy

With gasoline allocations cut back to 75 percent of what it received in July and August of last year, the Romulus Community Schools voted last week to spend $3,700 for a transportation study that hopefully will save both energy and money.

Contracted by the board to perform the study is Exertia Corporation of Chicago, which some four years ago put together a manpower optimization program for custodial services in the Romulus school system.

Supt. James M. Garfield said Exertia will make recommendations to operate school vehicles more efficiently and thereby effect energy savings.

"Our extensive summer programs demand that we get a full gasoline allotment. We are hopeful that we will be successful in achieving that objective," he explained.

With gasoline shortages such as the current 25 percent reduction for summer programs becoming more of a reality in the future, Garfield said the transportation study is justified in view of the results in energy savings and money it could bring.

Mayor's race is thinning out

Also taking out petitions are: Rush, Charles Hazen, Edward Thomas, Barry Baumann, Howard

Actually only one candidate, Thomas, has filed his petitions with the clerk's office.

Should some candidates withdraw, leaving only two persons each running for mayor, clerk, and treasurer, and 14 or less seeking a berth on council, no primary election would be necessary. Some political observers see this as a possible happening.

No way!

Although sign on back of van proclaims "Takin' it through the streets," driver evidently thought otherwise as he wisely parked vehicle on shoulder of Merriman Road rather than risk being engulfed in flooded underpass leading to Metro Airport south of I-94. Downpour last week (Wednesday) snarled traffic to and from airport and caused damage to thousands of homes and businesses in Romulus, Taylor, Allen Park and Dearborn Heights. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

During energy emergencies

Bill would expand Governor's powers

Energy shortages, whether they involve gasoline, electricity or heat, could have a staggering impact on the State of Michigan and its citizens, according to one state lawmaker.

"It is vital, that we be able to react to an energy emergency quickly and effectively," said State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District), adding that both the House and Senate have approved a bill which would enable the Governor to declare an energy emergency and assume exceptional powers for a limited time.

The Energy Preparedness Act of 1976 gives special executive powers to the governor in case of natural or man-made disasters in that they usually can be seen coming.

"We at one time did have law which gave the governor certain limited-duration powers with which to cope with energy shortages, but that legislation expired in 1974; Mahalak said." Given the considerable likelihood of energy emergencies in these times of growing energy resource shortages, it is felt that in the event of a severe shortage, the governor should be empowered by statute to declare an energy emergency situation and to restrict and direct the sale and use of energy in the state during such an emergency.

The bill approved by the House and Senate would create an energy advisory committee. Its duty would be to notify the governor on an impending energy emergency, based on state and federal data and other sources of information.

The bill would authorize the governor to declare a state of energy emergency after notifying the advisory committee or upon his own initiative. The state of emergency would last for 90 days, or until the emergency no longer existed.

suspend laws, rules and orders."

"Since it is nearly impossible to anticipate which specific statutes, rules or orders would have to be suspended to be prepared for every imaginable energy shortage situation, the bill would specify what could be suspended, he added.

Preparedness Act," he said. "Unlike most other natural or artificial disasters, energy shortages can often be anticipated on the basis of monitoring information furnished by the Michigan Energy Emergency Center in the Department of Commerce.

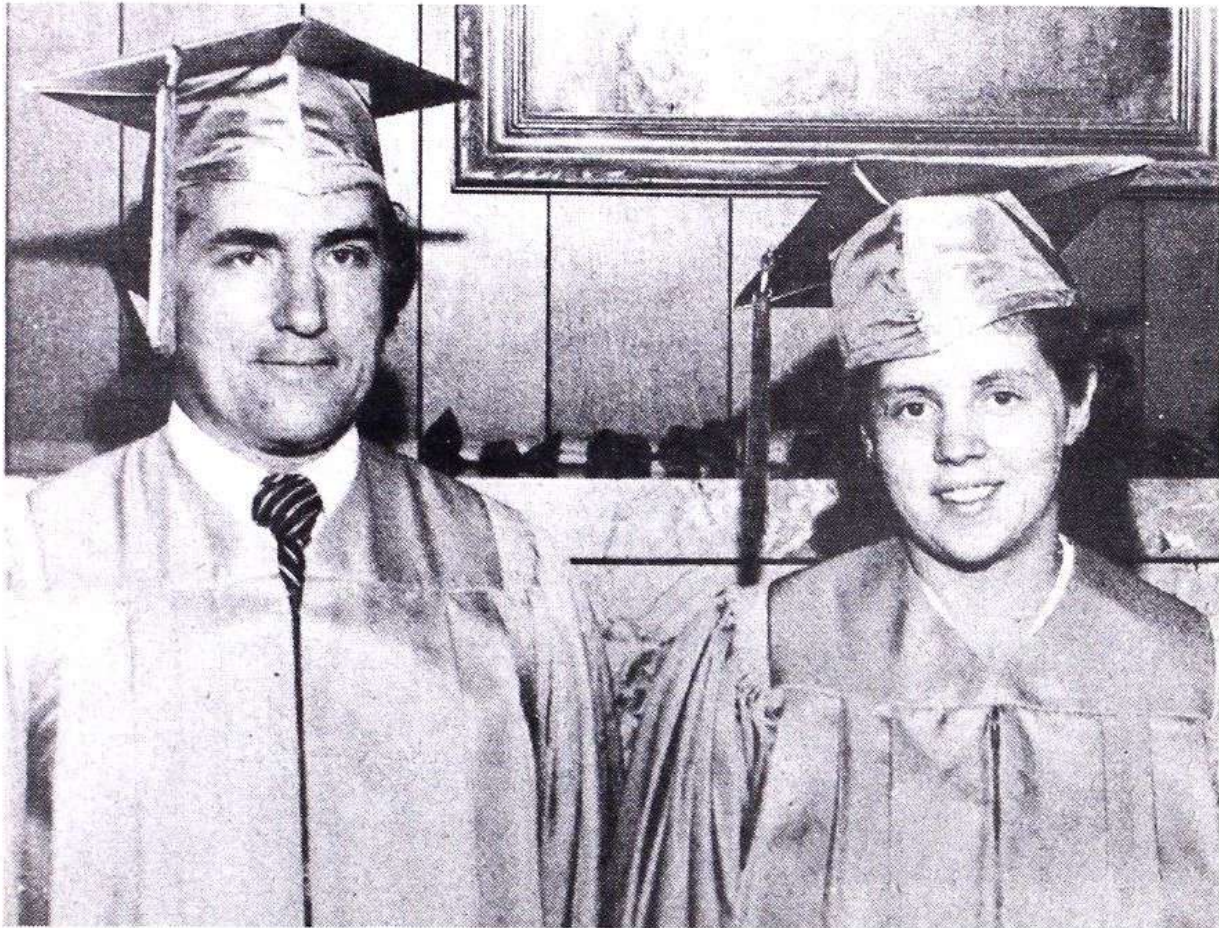

"With this kind of advanced warning and the bill's emergency power provisions, the governor would be capable of responding to an oncoming energy shortage before it caused unnecessary hardship to the state and its 'disastrous' results became serious enough to justify invoking the Emergency Preparedness Act."

'...it is very important that correctible action be taken quickly...'

This gubernatorial discretion would be essential for the most effective use of emergency powers, but the possible abuse of such discretion would be tempered by the bill's provision allowing the legislature to extend the state of emergency or allow it to terminate after 90 days or until the emergency situation is over, Mahalak explained.

"The bill is needed because emergency situations which involve energy are unlike the kind of crises covered by the existing Emergency

Federal standby plans currently being considered by Congress would require conservation measures for the states, to be put into effect in cases of severe energy shortages. States would be able to receive exemptions from such plans, but only if they had alternative mandatory programs which achieve similar energy savings, he added. The bill would authorize the governor to require such mandatory energy use restrictions, which would qualify Michigan for exemption from federal plans, and which would be more appropriate to this state's energy needs situation.

Know your law

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

BY ATT. GEN. FRANK KELLEY

Each year citizens are asked to vote on bond issues for public improvements ranging from parks to sewers.

Since voters are the ultimate consumer of public facilities, their decisions on the improvements will affect not only their taxes, but their community's growth and development. Voters often, however, are not adequately informed on the project on which they are voting.

Like all consumers, voters should be kept informed so they can decide whether a bond proposal will be a "good buy." Otherwise, proposals may pass or fail due to voter ignorance.

It is advisable that you, the voter, learn as much as possible about bond issues. Some projects should be purchased now, because the improvement is needed and its cost will go up in the project is delayed. Other projects have no priority and can be purchased at later dates.

Here is a list of questions a voter might ask themselves when considering bond proposals:

- Do we need the project now or can it be deferred?
- It is acquired at a good price?
- Will it operate efficiently?
- How long will the improvement last?
- What is the community benefit?
- What are the operating and maintenance costs?
- What will the bonds cost in taxes?
- Will the taxes have to be paid beyond the useful life of the project?
- What will the project cost with the financing?
- How will we, the taxpayers, benefit from the - project? In the short term? In the long run?

- Is the project a mere patch which will cost more in the long run or is a long-term solution?
- What will be our overall tax burden when this debt is added to it?
- What are the alternatives?
- What happens if nothing is done?
- If citizens are informed — as is necessary in a democracy — they will be able to fully appreciate or forcefully oppose public improvement projects, and be assured their tax dollars are spent wisely.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

Musicians and composers do not have an easy time supporting themselves while waiting for artistic inspiration or recognition. One of the few major supporters is the National Endowment of the Arts. Private foundations also support artists in developing or working on everything from traditional modes of music to more avant garde and experimental music that might not even be played on what would be recognized as musical instruments. Private contributions to musical organizations are now becoming more important as other funding decreases.

At DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484, you will find an outstanding selection of fine pianos and organs. To help you make this decision of which instrument would be best for your family, we offer a rental purchase plan...in other words, try before you buy. "Full Line." Master Charge and Visa. We Should Know the Word of God
...for the Word of God will Judge Us

JOHN 12:44—N.I.V. Then Jesus cried out, "When a man believes in me, he does not believe in me only, but in the one who sent me." 12:45—"When he looks at me, he sees the one who sent me." 12:46—"I have come into the world as a light, so that NO ONE WHO BELIEVES IN ME SHOULD STAY IN DARKNESS." 12:47—"As for the person who hears my words but does not keep them, I do not judge him. For I did not come to judge the world, but to save it." 12:48—"There is a judge for the one who rejects me and does not accept my words; that very word which I spoke will condemn him at the last day." 12:49—"For I did not speak of my own accord, but the Father who sent me commanded me what to say and how to say it." 12:50—"I know that HIS COMMANDS LEAD TO ETERNAL LIFE. So whatever I say is just what the Father has told me to say."

These words from the Lord Jesus Christ make it clear just how important God's word is in our life, not only to live by, but to die by, not only to die by, but to map the way to our final abode beyond death.

"Dear friends, we owe it to ourselves and to our families to begin now to make the study of God's word an absolute part of our daily life. To believe that Jesus is the Christ is the first step, to become deeply acquainted with Him through His word is preparing yourself with assurance that you will be called a son or a daughter on the judgment day.

"We make a special invitation for you to come worship and study with us. Do not be afraid to study God's word. To be confused is a lie from the enemy of your soul. The Holy Spirit inspired the word of God, so through prayer, He will see that you understand it. THE WORD IS WRITTEN JUST THE WAY GOD WANTED IT, SO DON'T LET MAN-MADE EXPLANATIONS STEAL ITS TRUTHS FROM YOU!"

Councilmen may have to pay own legal fees

Secret meeting court order awaited

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Attorneys are still working on a court order to conform with the opinion of Circuit Court Judge Charles S. Farmer stating that four Westland councilmen violated the Open Meetings Act in February, 1978.

The court order is expected to include a request for a permanent injunction against the council to prohibit it from any further "secret" meetings, although that issue was not addressed in Judge Farmer's opinion. It is also expected that the attorneys will suggest an order that the court assess the four councilmen personally for the attorney fees of the Westland citizens who brought the civil suit against Gail McKnight, Nancy Neal, Richard Stempien and Robert Wagner.

Although the originally-sought $500 in damages from each defendant councilman might be dropped from the final court order, the attorney fees, if paid by the councilmen personally, would probably run into the thousands of dollars.

The only relief suggested by Judge Farmer in his opinion was the statement that "this Court invalidates the compromises and decisions made by the body at that meeting."

This statement has left defendants, plaintiffs and attorneys, plus the city of Westland administration in confusion over the judge's intent.

However, the opinion of the court is not the final disposition of the case. It is the court order that ultimately spells out the relief that will be granted in the case.

And attorney Dennis Dettmer, who represented the two Westland citizens, Anne DeSmit and John Auten, said that it is not his intention to pursue that part (the invalidation of actions taken at the "secret meeting") in the final court order.

He did say he wants to get the permanent injunction, because "my clients have from the beginning been concerned about ongoing violation of the Open Meetings Act."

He also said he would seek to have the court order the four councilmen to pay his firm's attorney fees personally, and not allow the fees to be charged to the city.

Dettmer said he has talked to Charles Bokos, Westland city attorney, who represented Mrs. McKnight, Wagner and Stempien, and the council collectively, and John McKinney, who represented Mrs. Neal. Once they talk to their clients, the attorneys will get together and discuss the suggested contents of the court order.

The judge told the attorneys to prepare a court order for him to sign, an order conforming to his opinion. Although the 10-day time limit he put on the order has passed, attorneys have not presented the suggested order to the court yet.

Original confusion over the judge's opinion came from his statement that the "compromises and decisions" made at the illegal meeting be invalidated.

Since it was the contention of the plaintiffs that the council majority and mayor had talked about returning the fired department on aging director, Sylvia Kozorosky, to a job as deputy director, there was speculation that the order would require she be terminated.

But Dettmer noted that his clients always had supported Mrs. Kozorosky and that obviously they would not want her to leave the department on aging.

Auten, one of the plaintiffs in the suit, said this week that he wants the permanent injunction to prohibit this council, or any future council, from meeting in secret again.

He added he felt really good about the judge's decision that found in his favor, saying that "it shows one thing. The small people still have a chance to show elected officials that the law will prevail."

Mrs. DeSmit, recovering from a heart attack, was unavailable for comment.

Reaction from the four councilmen was to emphasize that they still believe they did not violate the law.

Mrs. McKnight insisted that the lawsuit has always been a political lawsuit, "intended to harm us personally and politically." The suit was begun while the plaintiffs were helping to organize a recall drive against the four councilmen.

Mrs. McKnight noted that in the judge's opinion, he did not mention any intent to issue a permanent injunction against the council from meeting in secret, indicating to her that he doesn't believe there is any danger of it occurring again. The judge also didn't mention fining the councilmen $500 each, "a commentary that he didn't feel we needed to be punished."

It was Mrs. McKnight, who acted as attorney in her own defense at the hearings, who suggested during her closing arguments to the judge that if he believed them to be guilty, he should invalidate whatever he feels happened at the meeting.

It remains to be seen if the judge will be persuaded to issue a court order leaving that portion out and inserting only the relief sought by the plaintiffs.

And if the invalidation clause remains, what would have to be done?

"Therein lies the question," said Mrs. McKnight. "We continue to insist we made no decisions."

Wagner reiterated his belief that "we went there on good faith, and I don't feel it was a violation of the act."

"I'd like to take a lie detector test on it," he added. "I feel the judge is definitely in error in his opinion."

Stempien said "I acted in good faith, went at the invitation of the mayor and on the recommendation of the city attorney."

"The amazing part is that the judge's decision is in complete disagreement with the testimony of Mayor (Tom) Taylor, the council members and Sen. (William) Faust (at whose home the meeting was held)," Stempien added. "The whole lawsuit was political to start with."

Mrs. Neal said she was "amazed" by the judge's decision, and added "I don't know how he could render it on the evidence presented."

None of the councilmen could say for sure if they planned to appeal the decision, noting that until the actual court order comes down, they won't know what the specifics of the decision are.

Among other things, financial considerations will have to be taken into account in an appeal. Mrs. Neal noted that she hired her own attorney, John McKinney, "so the city would not have to pick up the fee for my defense," and a further appeal would be costly.

The city of Westland has otherwise been paying the fees of Bokos, who defended the other councilmen and the city council as a public body in the suit that charged them as individuals and as a council.

Westland Mayor Thomas Taylor, who was at the meeting and testified that he was there to talk politics with political enemies (the four councilmen), noted that as the city's top administrator, it was he who hired Sylvia Kozorosky back after the compromise with the councilmen. So if there is a question of invalidating any council action, he needs clarification of what the court would be ordering him to do.

Also, he might be put into a position of having to decide if he wants to appeal such a decision from an administrative standpoint, he said.

Taylor added that "if it got down to a question of who pays the (attorney) fees, and the majority of the council votes to appeal that part (of the court order), I'd have to make a decision as to whether I would veto that."

Taylor said that from his reading of the law ("And I'm not an attorney"), the individual councilmen would personally pay for the litigants' attorney fees.

All questions hinge on what the final court order will be, and that should be ironed out within the next week.

Sen. Faust blasts secret meeting ruling

Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) had some strong words this week about the decision by Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer that the meeting he hosted in February 1978, which brought together four councilmen, among others, was in violation of the Open Meetings Act.

"To use the common vernacular, I'd say the decision is a bunch of crap," said Senate Majority Leader Faust, who maintained through his deposition that the meeting did not violate the Open Meetings Act.

"I think the reason for the decision is the fraternity between lawyers and judges," Faust continued. "To find the councilmen in violation of the act was the only way to get the litigants' attorney paid."

He noted that the attorney fees for the plaintiffs will amount to a "considerable sum" that the four defendants or the city of Westland will be ordered to pay.

The results of the case insure that "every attorney won," Faust said.

Dennis Dettmer, attorney for the two Westlanders who brought the suit, said he hadn't figured the amount of the fee, but noted that the firm did spend a lot of time on the case.

Faust was called to appear in court, but when he could not make an appearance on the scheduled day, Judge Farmer allowed his testimony to be taken through deposition.

"I don't think Judge Farmer read it," Faust stated.

Faust said that at the time of the meeting, when it began, "I warned them about the Open Meetings Act, that we were there to talk about the recall. That set the tone for the meeting. All discussion related to that."

(At the time, a recall petition drive was being launched against the four councilmen — Gail McKnight, Richard Stempien, Nancy Neal and Robert Wagner. The recall election was held in September, 1978, and the four councilmen easily won the vote of confidence.)

Faust said he has no qualms that the meeting in any way overstepped those ground rules set up at the beginning.

Faust noted that the attorney general has already ruled that officials may meet in private to discuss recall drives against them, but added: "I do think there have to be changes in the Open Meetings law so (it is spelled out that) officials are entitled to meet to discuss recall."

Faust, a prime mover in passage of the Open Meetings Act, and proponent of all sorts of legislation requiring public disclosure and the opening of government to the people, said that the Open Meetings Act has been of great benefit to the people of Michigan, and he firmly supports it.

But he doesn't think the law was appropriately applied in the Westland case.

He said citizens "at home" in Westland have been very fortunate to have the number and quality of people seeking office, people who devote many hours to the job, and such court action against elected officials could mean "no one will run."

Faust added that he believed the judge based his opinion on his belief that "the people there (at the meeting), lied. We didn't lie."

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike ... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 9091, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Southeast Michigan housing starts show steady increase during 1978

The number of permits for residential construction in Southeast Michigan continued to rise during 1978, according to a report recently released by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

According to the report, "Residential Construction in Southeast Michigan — 1978", the number of new housing units authorized increased from 27,252 in 1977 to 27,849 in 1978. This total includes an increase in single-family housing units from 19,463 to 19,779, and 253 more housing units in multi-family housing.

"I'm comfortable with the leveling off in housing construction during 1978 shown by the report," said Justine Barnes, SEMCOG Housing Subcommittee chairperson and Westland councilwoman. "Although there was only a small increase in housing construction over 1977, there was healthy activity in southeast Michigan's housing industry. Looking ahead to the next six months, we want to see how interest rates, cost of materials, inflation and energy will affect housing construction in the seven-county area."

The City of Detroit showed a 56.3 percent increase in the number of new housing units authorized, the largest percentage increase in the region during 1978. Macomb County recorded the largest numerical increase in housing permits with 1117 more permits issued in 1978 than in 1977. Washtenaw and Livingston counties also showed overall increases in housing permits issued while Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair and Wayne counties issued somewhat fewer permits in 1978.

The following 10 communities in Southeast Michigan issued the largest number of permits for residential construction during 1978: Canton Township (1,813), Sterling Heights (1,700), Clinton Township (1,554), Farmington Hills (1,552), Avon Township (1,383), Troy (1,057), Southfield (942), West Bloomfield (836), Ann Arbor (732) and Waterford Township (665).

A copy of "Residential Construction in Southeast Michigan 1978" can be obtained from SEMCOG's Information Services office at 961-4266.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments is a voluntary association of governmental units in Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne counties. Its principal function is long range planning for and openspace, criminal justice and transportation, housing, recreation the environment.

Scholarship winner

Gloria Elaine Smith of Romulus was among 29 students to receive health career scholarships from the Metropolitan Chapter of the March of Dimes. Miss Smith (left) is a graduate of Romulus Senior High School. She plans to attend the University of Toledo this fall to study nursing. Joining Miss Smith at the June 19 luncheon for the scholarship recipients were Richard T. Kelly, chairman of the March of Dimes chapter, and Leah Peltz of Garden City, also a scholarship winner. Each student received a 1-year one-time $100 award.

What you may not have thought about is that many of our own members of the law enforcement community are parents, too. We know the trials and tribulations of raising children. And, like you, we want to ensure that our own children get a chance to grow up unharmed. One of the hardest things a parent has to do is explain to a child why he or she must be careful of strangers. I can assure you that it is even harder for a policeman-parent — with his first-hand knowledge of the results of child molestation cases — to talk with his own children reasonably and calmly.

But we do; we have to. We have had to set down and rationalize our own fears before we could talk with our own children about this situation. In exploring our own feelings about a topic that cannot be impersonal to us — even when in the course of duty, it must be — we have come up with the approach that is widely used in "Kids, Don't Go With Strangers" presentations at local schools.

As both a parent and a cop, I want to share it with you. First of all, because it is a well-thought-out, helpful approach. Secondly, you can gain some insight into how to use it, and reinforce it, with your own children.

In class, we always discuss the subject of strangers calmly. You should do the same with your own child. There is no need to create alarm or fear, simply be firm.

We make it a point to cover these aspects:

- Never accept a ride from a stranger. Do not, ever, get into a strange car.
- Don't take money, candy, or gifts from strangers. Be polite, but firmly say "No." If the person persists, get away and find or tell a familiar adult. Try to remember details which will identify the person.
- Don't stand close to the car of a stranger who asks directions. Stand back several feet.

— Children should never talk to strangers. Especially if they must touch you while they talk — or if they ask questions about where you live, or what you like or dislike. Again, get away and find a familiar adult.

— Don't play alone in alleys or in empty or deserted buildings.

— Tell parents, teachers, or police officers, if any stranger is loitering around play areas, or wants to join in your play.

— Write down the license number of the car of any stranger who takes one of your friends for a ride; scratch it on the sidewalk or street with a stone, or in the dirt with a stick.

— Children should never be alone. There is safety in numbers. Stay with friends, avoid walking or biking long distances by yourself. Avoid going to movies or events without friends or company.

That's as much as can be accomplished during a class visit. But you will note that even these things require some parental cooperation. There is no way of predicting when a child is going to run into a threatening situation. Parents should deal with a youngster's self-protection as soon as the child is old enough to play outside the house.

Encourage your children to keep regular hours. Insist he or she keep in close touch with home, especially as the hour of the day grows later. Home is the safest place after dark.

You, yourself, should make it a practice to know where your child plays, what routes he travels to and from school, the grocery store, or friends' homes.

And don't be embarrassed about talking over this subject with your child. For most parents, a very telling pause comes when your child listens, then looks up at you and asks "Why?"

Don't hesitate. If your child, in your own opinion, is too young to understand, then speak in generalities. This topic can be done in stages as the youngster's ability to comprehend grows through the years — and you can, and should, get more specific as time goes by.

I don't know of a single police officer who doesn't wish that more parents would try, very early, to develop a close talking relationship with their children. It encourages them to keep you fully informed about their friends, their activities, their whereabouts and all of the wondrous things of their childhood that can help you make them better adults; and, in turn, you a better parent.

Consumer comment

Ask before signing

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

As Mrs. G explained it, her daughter was attracted to the health spa by the glamorous advertisements. She had signed a contract she didn't understand and was now being dunned for payments she wasn't aware she had to pay. Mrs. G called the Consumers Council Guideline to see what could be done.

The consumer counselor explained that the young woman may have certain rights under the Consumer Protection Act, if the contract had been misrepresented to her. After explaining various other provisions of state and federal laws which could apply, the counselor recommended the woman consult an attorney.

Unfortunately, as this case points out, some consumers find out the hard way that they should ask certain questions before signing a contract with a health spa. These questions include:

— Can you afford it? When considering the cost of membership, don't forget to add any finance charges.

— Will you stick with the program? Many times consumers sign up, attend the spa a few times and never go back. Keep in mind that getting your money's worth depends on your willingness to invest time and effort as well as cash.

— Does it have to cost a lot of money to get in shape? Investigate alternatives to health spas. There may be exercise classes offered at a local community college, school district or YMCA and YWCA.

— Are you able to begin a strenuous exercise program? If you have heart problems or are more than 35 years old, you may want to check with a doctor before you start an exercise program.

— Is the salesperson using high pressure sales tactics? Beware of special offers which are effective only the day you visit the spa. Some salespersons have been known to insist on signing up members on their first trial visit or refusing to let the consumer take the contract home to look it over.

— Have you shopped around? Compare membership costs and facilities, as well as the business reputations of several spas. The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division can tell if there have been any complaints filed against a spa. Its address is 525 W. Ottawa, Lansing, MI 48913.

— Do you understand your payment obligations? Many of the contracts are non-transferrable and non-cancellable. Keep in mind a 10-year membership will be worthless, if the spa goes out of business within a month or two. The contract also may be sold to a finance company or a bank, so you may have to pay, even if you didn't get what you paid for or become physically unable to use the spa.

Consumers who have questions on this or any other consumer topic can call the Consumers Council Guideline at 1-800-292-5680 Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. It's toll free.

DETROIT EDISON OFFERS EIGHT IMPORTANT TIPS TO HELP YOU GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR AIR CONDITIONER THIS SUMMER.

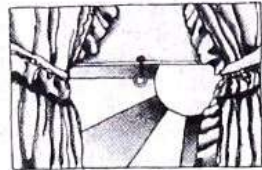

Fortunately, Detroit Edison customers have plenty of electric power available. Now and in the future. It's the result of planning, development and investment and the fact that over 84 percent of Detroit Edison's power is generated from coal, the nation's most abundant fuel. The balance is generated from other fossil fuels.

Even so, none of us should waste energy. So follow these tips and stay cool and comfortable all summer long.

1 Keep your air conditioner on a moderate setting. When leaving home, set the temperature higher.

2 Pull down shades and close draperies to keep out the hot sun.

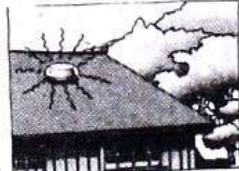

3 Be careful not to block the flow of cool air.

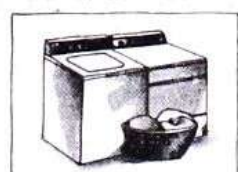

4 Shade windows from outside with ventilated awnings, solar screens, trees or shrubs.

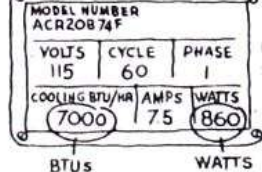

5 Keep air filter, coils, registers and return ducts clean.

6 Flush out hot attic air with a powered ventilator.

7 Use heat and humidity-producing appliances — such as your oven, washer and dryer — early in the morning or in the evening.

8 If you're buying a new air conditioner, you'll save electricity if you select one with an energy efficiency rating (EER) of 8 or higher. The EER is figured by dividing the BTUs by the watts.

WHAT IS INCLUDED IN A MEMORIAL SERVICE?

A memorial service, which is scheduled some time after the burial or cremation of the deceased, is an opportunity for the friends of the deceased to express their support and sympathy to the family of the deceased. The casket is not present. This service may include inspirational reading, religious selections, hymns, musical selections and tributes to the deceased. Personal, fraternal and religious tributes to the deceased may properly be included, as well as music which may provide comfort to those who attend. The memorial service is of the deceased and for those who live on. It is held at your church, our funeral home or even in your own home. It provides an alternate time for relatives, friends and associates to express their personal thoughts and support. Our services include helping you make all the necessary arrangements for the disposition of the body of the deceased as well as for the memorial service.

If you have other questions, feel free to call.

County board gives backing to HB 440

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners recently endorsed House Bill 440 which would provide for state takeover of county probation departments.

The State Legislature currently is considering amendments to provide a 6-year phase-out to allow probation employees to become state employees or complete their service as county employees.

The bill, introduced by State Rep. Jeffrey Padden, would take effect Oct. 1, 1979, and all new employees hired after that date would automatically become members of the State Civil Service System.

Commissioner Paul G. Citkowski, Chairman of the General Government Committee, views the bill as "a good way to transfer the probation functions to the state."

Citkowski added: "This would result in a $4 million savings to an already financially strapped Wayne County."

Labor representatives of the probation employees involved in the move have indicated their support for the proposal to avoid the possible layoff of more than 200 employees involved.

Citkowski expressed his concern regarding the uninterrupted supervision of more than 8000 individuals now on probation.

Because of this concern, commissioners and court officials in general support passage of the bill.

Legislation backs synthetic fuel aid

3 stellar constellations dominate July night skies

In July, the night side of the earth faces outwards from the sun towards the summertime constellations where three bright stars appear just after dark, notes University of Michigan astronomy Prof. Richard G. Teske. All three — Arcturus, Vega and Antares — are larger and brighter than the sun.

"Shining brightly just west of the overhead point, or zenith, in the constellation of Bootes is the yellow-red star Arcturus," Teske said. Now 36 light years away from the earth, Arcturus is traveling at "a fast pace by astronomical standards. The star is drifting in a south-westerly direction with a speed that will carry it across the sky a distance equal to half the width of the full moon in 400 years," he explained.

Rusty in color because it is slightly cooler than the sun, Arcturus is 20 times larger and 100 times brighter. Teske says astronomers refer to stars of this size as "giants."

"Arcturus makes a fine sight in the night sky," he said. "But if we were to put our sun in its place, the sun would seem very faint and would be difficult to pick out from among other dim stars."

The U-M astronomer next points out Vega, located "just east of the zenith, dominating the otherwise impressive constellation of Lyra." This bright, whitish star is 26 light years away. Although 70 times brighter than the sun, Vega is only about three times as large.

"Astronomers refer to it as a 'main sequence' star to denote that it belongs with the great majority of ordinary stars in our galaxy," TEske said. "Our sun also is a type of star that is rather commonly found in space."

The third bright star, low in the southern sky, is ruddy Antares, the heart of the constellation of the Scorpion, he continues.

"A star much cooler than the sun, Antares is nearly 6,000 times brighter. Even though it lies so far away that its light takes 425 years to cross interstellar space to our eyes, its great luminosity makes Antares one of the more brilliant objects in earth's sky. Such stars are so luminous that astronomers can easily photograph them in nearby galaxies."

"Called a 'supergiant' star because it is very large, Antares would extend beyond the orbits of all four inner planets if it were placed at the center of the solar system," said teske.

"Arcturus, Vega and the sun are similar because they derive the energy that enables them to shine by using a process of nuclear fusion in which atoms of hydrogen combine to form helium atoms," he explained. This reaction goes on deep within their dense, hot cores. "Antares already has consumed its central store of hydrogen fuel, astronomers believe, and now obtains its energy from another thermonuclear process which turns the accumulated internal helium into atoms of still heavier chemical elements," he noted. "But store of such fuel is limited, and Antares has only a few more million years to live before it becomes a dying, fuel-starved star. Astronomically, this is a very short time."

"In contrast, it is thought that our sun has enough hydrogen remaining to enable it to shine for perhaps another five billion years."

crisis situation our nation is facing," Congressman Ford said. "Now, we have the latest price increase by the OPEC oil cartel, threatening to plunge the United States into a recession and guaranteeing further inflation."

"We never will be able to resolve the problem so long as we depend upon the OPEC nations for 50 percent of our consumption. Synthetic fuels may enable us to declare our 'independence' from OPEC's economic throttlehold."

The legislation authorizes the President to offer loans, loan guarantees, price subsidies and construction subsidies in a crash program to promote the development of synthetic fuels. The President would be authorized to purchase up to 500,000 barrels a day for national defense needs.

"By guaranteeing both prices and a market for synthetic fuel, this bill would accelerate the development of synthetic energy plants," Congressman Ford said.

Synthetic fuel could be made from coal, shale or surplus farm products, he pointed out.

"Coal is an especially good source, since we have adequate domestic supplies, and the technology already exists to convert it to liquid fuel."

This would revitalize the coal industry, providing many new jobs.

"Sulphur is removed in the conversion process," he continued, "and becomes saleable, thus giving us an additional economic benefit. In addition, the sulphur-free fuel would ease the burden on the auto industry in meeting emission standards."

"It seems to me that the United States has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by an immediate crash program. We did it to get to the moon, and we can do it to solve the present dangerous situation, which finds us growing more and more dependent on other nations."

CHAPTER V, ARTICLE 1.4

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE FOR MICHIGAN CITIES, TOWNSHIPS AND VILLAGES

THE CITY OF ROMULUS ORDAINS:

SECTION
501.4-100 Short Title: Uniform Traffic Code Amendment

SECTION 501.4-200 CODE AMENDED

The Uniform Traffic Code for cities, townships and villages promulgated by the Commissioner of State Police on February 14, 1958 and published in Supplement No. 13, and as amended both on February 14, 1961 and published in Supplement No. 25, and on February 26, 1968 and published in Supplement No. 54, and on August 4, 1976 and published in Supplement No. 88, to the 1954 Michigan Administrative Code, in accordance with Public Act 62 of 1956, State of Michigan, previously adopted by reference by the City of Romulus as Chapter V, Article 1, is hereby amended as hereinafter set forth.

SECTION 501.4-300 CHANGES IN CODE

The following sections and sub-sections of the Uniform Traffic Code for Cities, Townships and Villages are hereby amended and additional sections or sub-sections are added as indicated. Subsequent section numbers used in this ordinance shall refer to the like numbered sections of the Uniform Traffic Code.

- Section 1.006a. After Section 1.006 add Section 1.006a as follows:
Section 1.006a. Civil Infraction.
"Civil Infraction" means an act or omission prohibited by law which is not a crime as defined in Section 5 of Act No. 308 of the Public Acts of 1931, as amended, being Section 750.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, and for which civil sanctions may be ordered.
- Section 1.045. After Section 1.044 add Section 1.045 as follows:
Section 1.045. Vehicle Code.
"Vehicle Code" means Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, being Sections 257.1 to 257.923 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

- Section 9.3. Section amended to read:
Section 9.3. Penalties.
Any provision of this ordinance which describes an act or omission which constitutes a civil infraction under the terms of the Michigan Vehicle Code, being 1949 P.A. 300 as amended, shall be processed as a civil infraction and any person found to have committed a civil infraction may be ordered to pay a civil fine of not more than $100 and costs in accordance with section 907 of the Michigan Vehicle Code.

Violation of any other provision of this ordinance not constituting a civil infraction, as herein provided, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SECTION 501.4-400 Conflicting Provisions Repealed.

Should any section, clause or provision of this ordinance be declared by the Court to be invalid, the same shall not affect the validity of this ordinance as a whole or any part thereof, other than the part so declared to be invalid.

SECTION 501.4-500 Effective Date.

This ordinance shall become effective immediately upon publication in a newspaper of general circulation.
I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk for the City of Romulus do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an ordinance duly adopted by the Romulus City Council at their regular meeting held on the 12th day of July, 1979.

Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

ATTEST: William M. Oakley, Mayor
Within forty-five (45) days after publication of any ordinance duly adopted by the Council, a petition may be presented to the Council protesting against such ordinance continuing in effect. Said petition shall contain the text of such ordinance and shall be signed by not less than six (6 percent) percent of the registered electors registered at the last preceding election at which a Mayor of the City was elected. Said ordinance shall thereupon and thereby be suspended from operation and the Council shall immediately reconsider such ordinance.

Editorial opinions

Are you ready for the battle?

For the fifth time in his 2½-year term, President Carter spoke to the American people this week on the energy crisis and what we, as Americans, have to do to eliminate this "monkey on our backs".

Some have criticized the President, calling his 10-day domestic energy summit and the resulting speech a move to strengthen his bid for re-election. We cannot agree. While the forcefulness of Mr. Carter's speech may bolster his image among Americans, its content is not something to be taken lightly.

Some have tagged the speech as a sermon, something we don't need. We disagree. We have become a nation of disbelievers. Maybe, like the Apostle Thomas who put his hand in Jesus's side before he would believe in the Resurrection, we need to put our hand in an empty gas tank before we will comprehend the problems that are besetting us.

What the President is asking us to do is not impossible. When World War II cut off our supply of natural rubber, scientists came up with, and rather quickly, synthetic rubber that kept the war effort rolling. We can cut our gasoline and fuel consumption, we know that. It happened during the Arab oil embargo. But the question is how will we trim our usage...voluntarily or forcibly?

It is our belief that the only way to effectively trim our energy needs is voluntarily. Rationing, whether by coupon books or an odd-even means, would cut our gas usage. But by voluntarily trimming energy consumption, we, as a nation, will learn the lesson that needs to be taught to this generation...We can do it on our own.

The world is a stage and the United States is on it. We are being scrutinized closely by other nations to see if we are up to the task ahead. Whether we pass or fail will depend on how we respond to the challenge.

We know the American people as a whole can handle the test easily, but we wonder if they are willing. It is far easier to sit back and blame the energy crisis on the oil companies and OPEC, then to place the responsibility squarely on our shoulders.

The United States is the largest energy user in the world, cornering 29 percent of the market. Other countries quickly point to us as a good example of gas guzzling, but in the first 6 months of this year we have trimmed our energy consumption by .3 percent. The figure is small, but should not be disregarded. Those other countries' energy consumption has increased by .7 percent.

Mr. Carter has in effect declared war on our foreign energy dependence. And it is time we join in that effort.

Volunteer to battle the energy crisis, don't wait to be "drafted" through a rationing program. What we do now will determine the life our children will be able to lead. If we continue to be "fuelish", the next generation will have none. If we are wise, they will have the good life we plan for them.

It has been more than 15 years since President John F. Kennedy said: "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country." It's time we all stop being self-centered and start doing our fair share. Are you ready for the battle? We are.

Don't short change air transportation

When a major air tragedy occurs in the United States, national attention focuses so intensely and in such detail on errors and weaknesses that the inherent strength and dependability of commercial air travel is forgotten.

Yet it should be remembered, even in the shock following a plane crash, that our country has the finest and safest air transportation system in the world.

Ours is the most mobile population in the world, and we routinely put our lives into the hands of those who guide the air travel system in the air and on the ground.

We assume that we are safe, and more than 99.9 percent of the time we are safe. Of the 286,000,000 commercial passenger airline boardings in the U.S. last year, only 153 people did not reach their destination, according to the National Transportation Safety Board.

On May 25, 1979, near Chicago's O'Hare Field, 273 people did not reach their destination — Los Angeles.

They must not be considered merely as statistics, for they were living human beings. But we should not forget that the U.S. has a near-perfect system of commercial aviation, with high technology and the skills of tens of thousands of people.

It is because we have the best and safest system in the world that all concerned should work together whenever an accident does occur. First, complete solutions to particular problems must be sought and implemented, further improvements that can make the system work better must be made and, finally, whenever the state of the art can produce even safer conditions, nothing less should be tolerated.

Converters handle new pump prices

By ROBERT LAW
State Representative
36th District

With gasoline prices inching closer to the $1 mark, emergency rules were adopted recently to compute new higher prices at the pump.

The Dept. of Agriculture which enforces the state's weight and measurements law, filed the rules after premium no-lead topped $1.00. The rules will be in effect for 180 days and may be extended an additional 180 days if necessary.

About 30 percent of the gas pumps in our state primarily in the U.P. can't compute prices above $9.99. If gas continues to rise (and there is little indication to assume otherwise) these pumps will need converters installed to reflect the accurate price per gallon and total price.

The problem is that there are well over 1 million pumps in the U.S. that will have to be converted and, the manufacturer can only produce 400,000 converters per year. However, there are metric boxes available right now if people are interested in selling gas by the litre.

At any rate, officials of the Dept. of Agriculture have said the rules will probably be extended for an additional 180 days. State law requires that gas pumps display the unit price of gas and be capable of computing and indicating the total price of the sale.

Since a number of these pumps can't compute a unit price more than 99.9 cents per gallon, it will be illegal for stations to use these pumps when gasoline reaches $1 or more.

Gasoline is already in short supply and illegal pumps would mean that whole areas would be prevented from buying gas at all.

Under the emergency rules, service station owners will have to modify their pumps through conversion gear boxes or new equipment to indicate the full price and compute the total sale. About 70 percent of the pumps in the state do have price capabilities of $10.00 and pricing by the ½ gallon will be permitted as long as gasoline and diesel fuel are priced at even-tenths of a cent.

It is important that you be aware of these rules to avoid a lot of confusion when you pull into the station to fill up your tank. In short, the rules are necessary so that the consumer knows exactly how much gas he has purchased and exactly how much it will cost.

The Agriculture Department has been keeping close tabs on the price of gas and these rules are not premature. We have just learned that OPEC has raised its prices and the increase will soon be seen at the pump. I think it is important that consumers be aware of these rules and conserve as much as they can.

Editor's log

On the flip side

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

It never fails to amaze me. How often two humans are on opposite sides of an issue, but on the same side.

A wise man once said that in any argument, there are almost always two people right.

Well a political observer of events in Western Wayne County could certainly testify to that.

A look at the communities of this area would reveal that about the only thing most leaders have in common is a dislike for Detroit and its Mayor Coleman Young who so often represents a barrier to local growth.

On the issue of 'Super Sewer', opponents and proponents alike have conceded that benefits to local economies could follow the installation of that project; how it would be installed is still a stumbling block.

On the issue of Metro Airport and its impact on this area, everyone is quick to accept the potential economic growth that could follow the effective exploitation of the airport's natural drawing power; most efforts relative to the airport, so far, have been spent in lamenting the noise and pollution of arriving and departing planes.

On the issue of developing downtown Wayne, city fathers are wringing their hands while neighboring communities are still wondering what happened to that prosperous little town which provided such a pleasant and convenient place to do the family shopping.

In Canton, newly arrived families are the first to urge the closing of the door to further residential growth, apparently saying that the town was too small until they arrived, then magically it became too large.

In Inkster, arguments are raging over a possible change of the city's charter to provide for a Strong-Mayor type of government for the once sleepy village. While both sides of that issue are devoted to the community and its eventual resurrection, they stand sharply divided on the vehicle for achieving that goal.

In Westland, the slumbering giant, it is politics as usual. To the casual observer of the scene, it appears that the principal product of that town is political intrigue, where to be elected to office is to have to play ball with the 'big guys' in the big time. Wonder what ever happened to non-partisan politics when unpolished dedicated people often made mistakes trying to improve the town. Today, while the mistakes are still with us, it is the super slick machine politicians who are making them. Perhaps some Westland politicians would be better served in Taylor where everyone understands the rules of the game.

In Romulus, the newly elected Mayor William Oakley has just about finished up his first term and the de-emphasis of 'Troutt' style politics has been less painful than first thought.

While behind the scenes dealing is still a part of the program there, new blood for the city's ailing image is desperately needed lest the old blood once again come on the scene.

In Belleville, life just goes on. Small town living at its best could be even better if the state would get off its 'duff' and enforce its non-pollution rules that could go a long way toward cleaning up their lovely lake in their downtown district.

In Van Buren, the struggle to head off continuing attempts by neighbors to annex a portion of the township, continues.

Unless that community soon approves a change to 'charter township' status, Van Buren could end up the size of Belleville, and Romulus and Belleville could end up with all of Van Buren's industry and new development. Even those developments which the Van Buren officials went to jail to protest.

But while Western Wayne County is diverse in opinion, politics and temperament, with the exception of Westland it is still a better place to live than Taylor.

Westland is still better than Detroit.

Readers' open forum

...And along those lines...

Editor:

I was pleased to have the opportunity to be featured in a recent edition of the Associated Newspapers. I have received several comments and letters as a result of the article that you ran on the first year I have served on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

I would like to add a couple of thoughts to the statements attributed to me in the article. First, although I have met up with several disappointments since being appointed to the County Board, I have also had many highpoints, not the least of which is the opportunity to meet many fine people throughout Wayne County and especially in our district.

Second, I would not want anyone to gather the opinion that I would discourage people from seeking office as an elected official. Quite the contrary. I actively encourage people of all ages to make the commitment to be a candidate for public office. I have always maintained that we should acknowledge and congratulate those that run and lose, because they at least care enough to be involved in the first place.

Thirdly, although I have been taking some of our department heads to task in the search for better service, I have also had the opportunity to work with several hard working and highly competent administrative people in the county. I have always tried to be positive in my approach to this job, and I want it understood that Wayne County is very fortunate to have a core of hardworking employees with many fine department heads.

And last, I want to underscore the need for residents in out-county to make a concerted attempt to find out more about county government. To that end I offer the services of my office at any time to any group that would like a presentation on county government and what it means to a Wayne County resident.

Although I work full-time in a part-time environment, I would hope that if people have a problem that they will feel free to call on me at any time. I will try to respond as quick as possible.

Again, my appreciation for the opportunity to use the pages of your newspapers to reach the residents (nearly 150,000) of the district I represent.

'Reach out' hits at pocketbook

Editor:

I can't take it any longer. It has been irritating enough that Michigan Bell is a monopoly and can afford a take-it-or-leave-it attitude with us customers who can go nowhere else for service. But must my intelligence be insulted 50 times a day by all the radio and TV stations soliciting that stupid "Reach out and touch someone"?

What I really see when I hear it is some ad agency reaching out for enormous handouts that rip off us Bell users to the tune of millions of dollars a year.

Nothing in today's wasteful economy so blatantly reminds me how big business has me and millions of other Americans hopelessly shackled. Few people can afford to just phone someone on a whim — drive somewhere, buy something — without having good reasons. More importantly, no one has to be paid exorbitant commissions to tell users how convenient a telephone is.

I truly feel that all this promotion has been instigated by the advertising agencies. Obviously their astronomical fees, as well as the money paid to TV, radio and magazines, is reflected in OUR phone bills.

Could you be honest enough to give me the name of the person to whom I can express myself more directly and in much stronger terms.

Subsidizing commercials to sell a fact of life has bothered me for some months. The same "reaching out" has been fleecing our pocketbooks for much longer than some months. But I guess when you have something good going, "ride it to death."

Let's stop this wasteful "reaching out" into my pocket. The money we save on long distance calls is eaten up more than tenfold by the advertising agencies and the media.

Carol Premo, a Certified Social Worker in private practice in Belleville, Mich., will be presenting weekly answers to problems which may have been the source of either joy or pain for some of our readers.

You are invited to ask Carol about a problem or discuss a solution by mailing your letter to: Carol Premo, Associated Newspapers, 47818 W. Huron River Drive, Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Dear Carol,

I have no one else to talk to and I'm really desperate. I'm 16 years old, a junior in high school, supposed to go to college and pregnant. No one knows and I'd rather die than have anyone find out. My parents are strict Catholic and could never accept this. They were against my going with Jim (not his name) in the first place.

Jim said he would marry me but I know he really doesn't want to and besides I've seen what happens to my friends when they get married and have a baby right away. I don't know whether I want to marry or not.

I won't get an abortion because I think it's wrong to take a human life. Of course it's wrong to have sex and not be married but I did that too.

Is there any way to help me? Can you talk to my parents? Please do something because I'm so miserable I could die.

Need Help Fast

Dear Needs Help,

I am answering your letter ahead of others because I agree you need help fast. Pregnancy is not something you can hide and hope that it will go away. Although it is apparent that you are feeling guilty and upset with yourself for getting pregnant, I applaud your foresight in not rushing into a premature marriage. All too many young people ruin their lives by compounding one mistake with others.

You state that you do not want your parents to know yet and ask if I will talk with them. It seems that you do want them to know and that you want their concern and support, but fear their rejection. Parents frequently surprise us with strength and understanding they can demonstrate in times of crisis.

Because you are a minor, your parents will have to give their consent before any concrete plans for you can be made. I suggest you try to sit down and talk with them as soon as possible. If you find that you are unable to do this, you can contact Catholic Social Services of Wayne County, a United Fund Agency, which has an excellent unwed mother department. They can help you with all aspects of your pregnancy including counseling for you and your parents.

If you decide to place the child in adoption, they can also arrange for a maternity home for you as well as foster care and adoption plans for the baby. You can call:

Don't wait any longer. It will only become more difficult for you. Good luck!

'Old Jed Brown'

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

As the inflation spiral twists to even higher planes I find myself getting frightened because my kids' father doesn't have an old Jed Brown who owes him money.

Believe it or not, I would have gone hungry when I was a little girl if it hadn't been for "old Jed Brown."

"Old Jed Brown" owed my father a fairly substantial bit of money. When the depression hit he reneged on his debt, even while continuing to live high. He was a whiner and he was always telling anyone who would listen how poor he was, but he still lived in a big, beautiful home, and drove the fanciest car in town.

However, my dad was a smart man... and a very good poker player. And "old Jed Brown" was a sucker for poker.

One day my mother ran from the kitchen into the living room where my dad was reading the newspaper.

"We were down to rock bottom," she cried. "The only thing in this house to eat is a jar of dill pickles." And she shook the jar in my dad's face.

My dad, who liked to eat, unwound from his chair and loped off to the kitchen. He opened up cupboard doors, peeked into the pantry and then finally said, "Well, I guess I'd better go uptown and play some poker."

"Old Jed Brown" was easy to find and the poker winnings got us a beefsteak supper with plenty of vitamins.

"Old Jed Brown" was good for other things too, besides food. There was the day when my mother and father were going to a wedding. The dress had been whipped up out of something my mother had tucked away in her dresser drawer for better times, but she couldn't whip up a pair of shoes.

So my father went up to Main Street to buy a pair of fancy slippers.

"Old Jed Brown" never knew that he almost got his debt paid off in the three or four years the depression hung heavy on that little Idaho town. If he did know, he never let on, but happily fell into the poker game every time my dad bumped into him up on Main Street. And my dad's kids never went hungry.

There are a lot of things I remember about those depression years, besides "Old Jed Brown," although he figured prominently in one of my favorite remembrances.

It was towards the end of the depression and Old Jed must have been almost paid up, that soft spring evening when my father got a yen to play some poker. He danced his little jig in the kitchen which was his way of telling us he felt lucky, kissed my mother goodbye and went whistling off for Main Street.

My best friend and I were sitting on the back porch a while later when we heard his merry whistle intermingled with the soft 'moo' of a cow. Springing from the porch swing we ran out onto the sidewalk, and there was my father whistling away, pulling a reluctant cow. When he saw us he grinned and said "Look what I won from 'old Jed Brown' at poker tonight."

My mother almost died. She had happily gone to the farm a few years before and chased cows, prayed for cows, and milked cows, but she could not for the life of her see how town has a place for cows.

"It will come in handy," my father said, and tethered the beast to the corner of the garage.

When I came home from school the next day the cow was gone. My mother pulled me into the bedroom, hushing me all the way.

"Look," she whispered, unfolding the wrappers from a box, where nestled in the tissue was the most beautiful, the most exquisite commencement gown a girl could ever have longed for.

"Where did you get it?" I gasped in awe.

"Well you might say 'Old Jed Brown' bought it for you," she grinned.

"I sold the cow!"

Parental Pitfalls

Battle scars of summer

By SHERRY WAINES

Parents forget. If they could only remember, they wouldn't get so hurt.

They forget how exciting it is to wear the battle scars of summer. Bumps, bruises, cuts, scrapes are children's medals of courage. They wear them proudly with honor and they expect special recognition for each wound. For each scab has its own story which can be told and retold until it disappears.

A parent sees a cast on a child's arm as representing a fractured bone. They worry, will it heal correctly? They hurt inside remembering the child's pain.

A child sees a cast as a very important status symbol. It means that he will return to school in the fall an instant "hero". Until that cast is removed the story of his heroic feat can be repeated to all of his very interested peers. After the cast is removed he will still have wonderful opportunities to again relate this experience, even into adulthood. But, parents forget. They only think of the pain and agony involved so they are hurt.

Parents forget the thrill of a scab. First there is the watching and waiting for the big scab to form. Then at the right moment the agony and ecstasy of picking that scab. Then comes the silent excitement of watching the blood drip down their leg or elbow until they are sure that they will bleed to death when miraculously the blood clots and a new smaller scab is formed. Then the whole process starts all over again until the wound is healed.

This whole thrilling process is forgotten by parents and so it makes them sick. Children love it.

When my daughter is inflicted with a new scrape I allow her to play the leading role. It is her show. My role as a parent is to quietly control her performance according to the size of her infliction. I must allow her to over rate her wound, or God forbid, under rate it.

Today she came running in the back door with two bloody knees, the result of a battle with the sidewalk. The sidewalk won.

Her eyes were filled with tears showing us both the exact amount of pain involved. While I applied first aid she recalled the ordeal detail by detail. All the while I was nodding and making sympathetic noises to show my understanding and sympathy. Then it was time for her to pick the type of bandage that she would wear on her wounds. This is very important. Would it be the purple Band-Aid with green airplanes or the red Band-Aid with blue stars. She chose one of each. Kids love Band-Aids.

Three kisses and she was off limping proudly down the sidewalk, out into the sunset. I was left alone on the porch... alone and hurt.

This Saturday is the start of the exciting yearly Port Huron to Mackinac sailboat race. Why not jump into the stationwagon and head for Port Huron to cheer these courageous sailors on. This race plays a big part in realizing how lucky we are to be living in a Water Wonderland. The kids will love the experience and so will you Mom and Dad. Have a good week—Sherry.

Lawmakers must approve Detroit subway's funding

The State Legislature must approve each phase of the proposed Detroit subway system before funds for that phase can be expended, according to a ruling by State Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley July 12.

In an opinion requested by State Rep. Robert C. Law (R-Westland), Kelley ruled that the Department of Transportation may not spend $1 million earmarked for preliminary subway engineering unless the legislature approves a concurrent resolution appropriating the funds.

The $1 million was included in the 1979-80 public transportation program, presently in conference committee.

In his opinion Kelley stated: "...before any funds can be expended for either the preliminary or final construction engineering plans or the construction of a subway system within the area of SEMTA, the legislature also must approve the expenditure by a separate concurrent resolution."

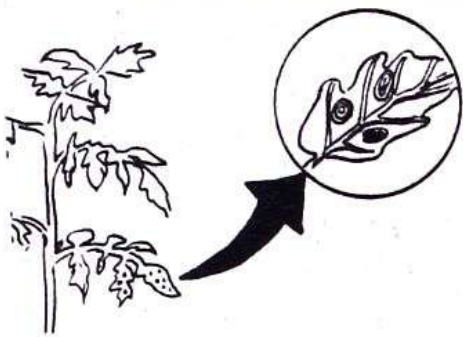

He further wrote that "whenever any additional program for the subway is presented, the legislature must vote separately upon such program."

Law, a member of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation, said the opinion was a guarantee that a cautious, well reasoned approach to the Detroit subway would prevail.

"I agree completely with the Attorney General's reading of the statute, and I am happy with his ruling that the legislation must approve each and every step of the proposed subway," he said.

Law said that when the transportation package was approved last year, the legislature wrote into law that the House and Senate would have to pass a concurrent resolution in order to appropriate funds for the subway.

Pest of the Week

TOMATO EARLY BLIGHT

Your tomatoes may now be coming infected with a fungus called Early Blight.

Early Blight effect both seedlings and older plants. On mature plants, leaf spotting is the most common symptom causing premature leaf drop and sunscald and poor production of fruit. The spots are characteristically made up of a series of concentric rings or a 'Bullseye.' Fruit may also be effected — developing a leathery blackened spot around the stem.

Early Blight may be controlled by spraying the fungicide Maneb according to package directions. However, it can be minimized by cultural practices. The fungus overwinters on old plant stems, etc. which should be removed from the site yearly. Plants should be watered from below as wet foliage increases the chances of this disease.

Tourney to be held at Dun Rovin

Friday is last day to enter golf championship

BY TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor
You have until 5 p.m. Friday, July 20 to enter the 1979 City Championship Golf Tournament.
"I do not know the exact numbers that have signed up for this year's tournament," said Bill Hawley, tournament director. "I'd have to get together with the Westland Parks and Recreation Department to count the final tally."
"But I'm sure we'll have another excellent tournament as we have had in the past," Hawley added.
Last year, approximately 125 male amateur golfers competed in the tournament. This year an equal turnout is expected for the 20th annual summer classic which pits golfers from the five communities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Canton Township and Garden City.

Tom Piscopink is the defending champ. The Wayne golfer has won the last two versions of the tournament and also captured the last three Wayne city titles.
In order to enter, a golfer should fill out the registration blank accompanying the story and either mail it to the Westland Parks and Recreation Department, 36651 Ford Rd., or to the Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne. Registration fee is $20, and checks should be made out to City of Westland, treasurer. Entry blanks may also be dropped off at the ANP offices. There will be a list of rules or parks and recreation department governing the tournament in the sports section next week. Also tee-off times for foursomes also will be announced at that time.

The tournament will be staged Saturday and Sunday, July 28-29 at Dun Rovin, a par 72, 6,850-yard course located at 16377 Haggerty Rd. in Plymouth. (Telephone 420-0144).
Golfers will play their first round on Saturday, then return for the finals the following day. The tee-off times for the second day will be announced after the first round. As in the past, golfers with the low scores will tee off first during the championship round.
Though there are five cities involved, the city championships are held simultaneously. Championships are determined by medal play (low score) and additional flights will be created for each city only if the total entry from that city is sufficient to warrant it.
There will be trophies awarded to first, second and third place finishers in each of the flights and a special tournament trophy for the over-all medalist (low scorer) of the entire meet.
In case of a tie for one of the trophy positions, the competitors will wage a "sudden death" playoff to determine the winner of the particular trophy.
Also at stake are the berths for each city's team at the Michigan Recreation and Parks state tournament. The low five scorers from each city will be eligible to play on a city team in the state finals. All other golfers will become alternates in order of finish.
However, only bona fide residents of a city may represent that city at the state.

The Sports Meridian

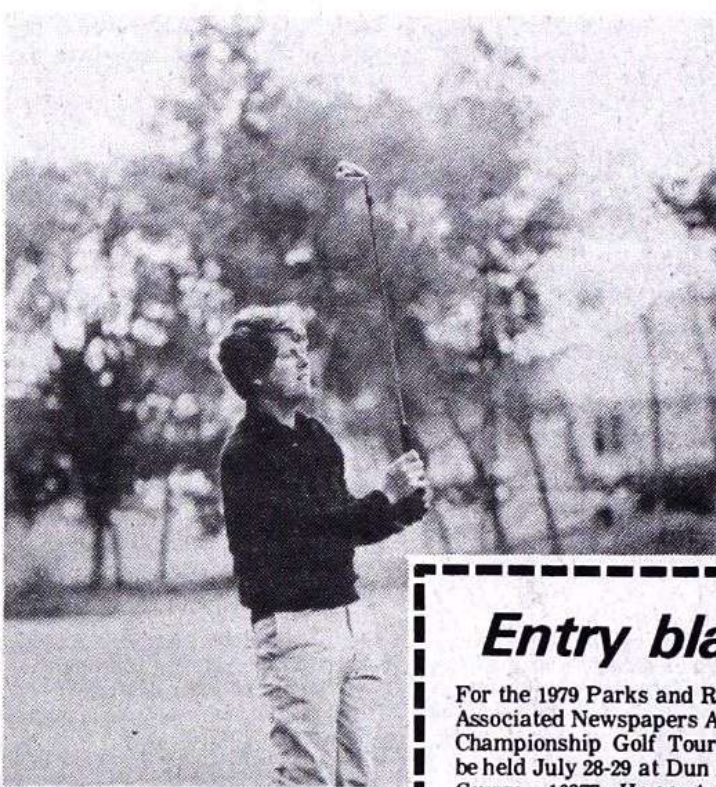

The fighting game

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Willie Williams is a fighter.
And he was smart enough to know when to hang up his gloves.
Few boxers have the guts to admit that their mission in the ring is over until the final ten second count.
The 49-year-old Williams who grew up in Inkster and was graduated from Inkster High learned, like most kids growing up, that when you have two solid fists in front of you, few mess around with you.
But Williams liked putting on gloves and he wound up at Kronk Recreation in Detroit where such men as the immortal Joe Louis and the present Michigan sensation, Tommy Hearnes, first got their boxing opportunities.
"I had my fun and my share of the limelight," Williams said during a telephone conversation on Monday. He won 30 of his 34 pro bouts, then something happened in Norfolk, Virginia in 1954 that brought Williams' boxing career to an abrupt halt.
In fact, Willie remembers the exact date, July 1.
"I had been considering leaving the ring because there had been a couple of sensational deaths that year. But it was the bout with Malcolm DeWitt that settled it."
Williams took a blow to the head that caused internal bleeding. It was after the loss that he decided to end his career as a pro boxer. He got a job as a X-Ray technician with the Wayne County General Hospital and put in 27 years with the county hospital.
But, as is the case with many athletes, he couldn't leave the ring completely. Williams has joined forces with one of Inkster's prominent citizens, Lafayette Allen Jr. They have organized "Professional Pugilistic Promoters Inc." And in connection with promoting boxing, Williams and Allen are putting together an amateur boxing night at the Inkster Recreation Complex on Middlebelt, a mile north of Michigan Avenue. The program will feature some of the up-and-coming young boxers of the country.
"There is a renaissance in boxing throughout the country, and I am certain that it will rub off here. We will be promoting amateurs who are well known throughout the midwest."
Williams' first-night card scheduled for 8 p.m., July 27, includes a pair of heavyweights: Scott Mahan, the 1979 AAU champion out of Detroit vs. Michael Couzens of Fremont, Ohio. The 10-fight program also will feature heavyweights Willie Edwards and Dino Guzzi of Southgate; featherweights - Joey Johnson of Melvindale vs. Melvin Medirino of Lansing; Bernie Bolden, Jr. Golden Gloves champ who won titles in 1974, '75 and '76 from Detroit vs. Scott Miservich from Lansing.
"Anyone who has followed the fighting game knows of or has heard of these fighters. And they are not slouches - these kids can fight."
What is behind Williams' plan. Is it financial?
"Not really - what I would like to see is that these fights become an avenue for the participants to make their way to the Olympics. It is also a means of keeping fighting where it belongs - in a ring."
Williams points out that boxing is a dangerous sport.
"As a sport, as a manly art of self-defense, there isn't anything like it," Williams continues. "But the fans look for offense. OFFENSE. Meaning knockout or TKO. And that's what causes the problems. The killer instinct ruins the game."
"There is no other sport in the world I know of that has the same purpose boxing has - that is to render a man unconscious for ten seconds."
Articulate - Williams is in real estate and owns a University of Michigan degree and also is a licensed (by the Michigan Boxing Commission) promoter for professional and amateur boxing.
Williams' first marriage produced daughters, but no sons to follow in his footsteps into the ring. He has remarried.
But if Williams had a son would he permit him to take up boxing as a career?
"Managing and training takes a lot of patience," Williams said, the kind of patience I do not have. "If I had a son I would not encourage him to box, however, if he decided he wanted to box I would be in his corner to the end."

Cliffhanger ends in 6-4 Thomas loss

Both teams collected 12 hits.
Each had two runs in the first inning, but when all of the swingin' and hollerin' was over, Studio Lounge handed previously undefeated Alberta Thomas its first defeat, 6-4.
The victory stretched Studio's winning streak to nine games, and they stand alone atop of the Westland Women's Softball League standings.
Alberta leaped on winning pitcher Sharon Turflinger for two runs in the opening inning and, after loser Sheryl Chomiuk gave up an equal number of runs, Alberta's broke the deadlock with a run in the second.
Studio's decisive inning was the third when it pounced on Chomiuk for three key runs and took the lead for good. Each team put a run on the board in the sixth inning.
Chomiuk's nemesis was Heather Domke who slugged three doubles and knocked in four runs. Teammate Mary Crechiolo also stroked a pair of two-baggers and scored twice while Mary Traynor connected for a couple of singles.
Meanwhile, Alberta wasted Barb Rnoch's three hits, including a homer. Dawn Johnson also drilled a roundtripper and Marilyn Valuet chalked up a pair of singles.
The loss was Alberta Thomas's first in nine starts.

Showdown in Wayne

Bee Jays warm up for rival, J & D's

It took only four innings before Jake's Lounge screamed "mercy", and the Bee Jays had tucked away their 11th victory in 12 starts in the Wayne Parks and Recreation women's softball league.
The Bee Jays erupted for 14 runs in the top of the fourth and had already soared ahead 10-3 before the "mercy rule" was put into effect. The 24-3 Bee Jays' victory left the league with co-leaders as the winners and arch-rivals, J & D Auto Parts, have amassed identical 11-1 won-lost ratios.
The two will meet in the near future to settle their first place ratings.
Mary Porter, who gave up three runs in the first inning, then scattered four hits, chalked up the victory. Rose Harrison and Joey Sens handled the pitching chores for the losers.
Porter also swatted a homer and drove in two runs while teammates Rumble and Hayes also stroked roundtrippers for the winners.
In the only other game, Big Boys failed to field the needed amount of players and were slapped with a forfeit to Burghuff which now has a 3-9 record.
Meanwhile, Caesar's, the defending world women's softball champs, captured its second straight Wayne Tournament Softball crown last week by sweeping five successive victories. Runner-up was Taylor Sporting Goods, while Woods Sporting Goods from Grosse Pointe Woods wound up in third and was awarded a berth to compete in the world tournament which will be held in Petersburg, Virginia.

Wayne's entry, Crestwood Dodge, which already has clinched a spot for the world championships, finished fifth in the tournament and contributed one player to the All-Star Team. Mary Crechiolo, the Crestwood Dodge's representative to the all-tournament lineup, joined Renie Dugon (New York), Diane Agostinelli (New York), Robbie Johnson (New York), Sandy Gayenski (Grosse Pointe), Sue Pulje (Taylor), Pam Rendine (Royal Oak), Jackie Huggins (Taylor), Caroline Kaulavalus (Royal Oak), Amy Argo (Grosse Pointe), Carmen King (Taylor), Marsha Laskowski (Royal Oak) on the mythical team.
Ms. Renedine, who batted .685 during the five-game series, was also selected as the MVP.

In Westland Major League

Studio streaking to softball title

Beaten once in 13 trips to the diamond, perennial Westland Major League softball title hopefuls, Studio Lounge remains the main target for would-be pretenders to the throne.

And if Hideway and Jamies, seated two games out of first with similar 11-3 records, don't muster up some help they can stash away their title plans until next year.

Jamie's almost dropped further behind but hung on to nip the ninth place, Disciples 16-15. The losers exploded for six runs in the sixth to tie the game at 15-all, but Jamie's broke the deadlock in the bottom of that inning.

Lee Calloway settled the issue when he drilled one of loser Rob McGuire's pitches over the fence for a home run to win it for Jamie's. McGuire also gave up three other homers, two of those to slugger Vern Westerlund who had six runs batted in for his three hits. Teammate

Roger Wojeski connected for four hits, two of them doubles. Rob Goodlow, the winner, aided his cause with a circuit clout.

Goodlow was tagged for a total of 14 hits, including two each by Dan Luke, Jim Bolder and Larry Read.

Hideway had no problems with Dearborn Real Estate which succumbed 14-3 to the second place team. Dearborn put all of its runs on the board in the third inning thanks to an over-the-fence homer by Keith Drake who scored Don Thomas and Larry Michclik ahead of him.

Hideway jumped on loser Chris Drake for six runs in the second and put the game out of reach with a seven-run fourth. Jeff Hodgkins belted three hits, including a homer.

He also drove in four runs. Dennis Finrock got a double and a triple and had three RBIs while Jon Marmul clubbed a homer and single for the winners.

Steve Patterson, who whirled an eight-hitter, was the winner.

In another barnburner, Abbey Roadhouse scored a run in the bottom of the eighth to stun Joe Thomas 15-14. Winning pitcher Ray Fortier gave up four runs in the first inning and fell behind 13-6 after four innings before his teammates struck back. Abbey's tilted the board in their favor with six runs in the fifth, scored one in the seventh and got the winning run in the eighth.

Jeff Watson, who banged out four hits, including a triple, knocked in the winning run. He had, in all, four RBIs. Teammate Ray Hannon sliced four singles off of loser Joe Cooley and Wally Wolfe settled for three hits and two RBIs.

Fortier had his problems with Charlie Copeland who accounted for four of his team's 16 hits. Jim Ferrari swatted three hits, one a double and Mark Mays came up with a pair of doubles for the losers.

Last inning rally saves Wayne Class A leaders

Obviously unimpressed by Burghuff Bar's first place image and 12-3 record, Unistrut, an also ran, had the Wayne Class A Men's softball leader on the ropes, but couldn't come up with the knockout punch last week. Burghuff came out hitting in the bottom of the seventh, scored three big ones to pull out a close 8-7 decision over the fifth-place team. The victory enabled Burghuff to hold on to first place thanks to its 12-3 record. But second place Hofbrau, which won a 7-3 victory over the Broncos, keeps breathing down the frontrunner's neck. Burghuff amassed a 3-0 lead after two innings before Unistrut came to life. The losers grabbed a 5-3 lead in the top of the fourth and was ahead 7-5 in the seventh when Burghuff came to bat. Led by Corky Hays and Dave Conlin, the league-leaders struck for three runs to win it. Hays rapped out three singles off of loser Jeff Hogan, while Conlin also latched on to three hits, including a double.

Winning pitcher Joe Kadlec gave up a total of 14 hits, including a couple of singles to Hogan and Ron Smith.

Hofbrau made 10 hits count for a 7-3 victory over the Broncos and pitcher Curt Witanen who gave up four singles to Ray Fox and a pair of singles to Dennis Cowell. Cowell, also the winning pitcher, was tagged for nine hits, including two singles by Keith Drake and three hits by Greg Knapp.

Paul's kept its hold on third place by edging Van Born 9-5 behind Denny Cook's eight-hitter. Cook had his troubles in the early innings as he delivered a triple and single to Joe Sowa, while Don Thomas connected for a pair of singles.

Mark May homered and drove in three runs off of loser Denny Gordon who also gave up a triple to Elmer Daniels.

Kuneman homered and doubled off of losing hurler, Ron Coleman who also have up two hits each to Taylor and Klemmer.

Dean Gherandini and Charlie Myers split four singles and Tom Barth singled and doubled off of winner Rick Wolf.

In the only other game, Metro Maintenance struck for seven runs in the third inning on route to a 11-2 victory over P & P Distributors. Coleman, the winning pitcher, scattered five hits including a triple to Bob Yaske and run-scoring singles to Dennis Neidy and Pat Perrin.

Perrin was the loser. He was hit hard by John Murray who finished the day with an over-the-fence homer, double and a single which accounted for three RBIs. Barry Kenyon checked in with three hits, including a triple, while Charlie Myers had two hits, one scoring a run.

Johnny's keeps rolling toward title

Undefeated Johnny's '76 kept its hands on the title throttle in the Westland Red Division last week with a come-from-behind 14-10 victory over Quo Vadis.

Quo Vadis had 'upset' written all over their faces as the second place team (7-2) jumped on winning pitcher John Yanick for five runs in the first inning and remained in the game up to the fifth when it trailed 10-8, but the unbeaten leaders pulled this one out with two-run spurts in the bottom of the fifth and sixth innings.

Both teams collected 12 hits. But loser Mark Bjerk gave up a crucial homer and triple to Bob Moran who accounted for three runs batted in. Greg Piscopink also sliced three hits, including a double, while Rick Bergerson belted three singles off of Bjerk.

Ken Strickler's circuit clout and single drove in three of Quo Vadis' runs. Jim Moriarty and Clark Johnson each collected a single and double.

Quo Vadis took its frustrations out on winless Extra Point Bar who was buried under a 22-hit barrage, 20-4. Bjerk twirled a five hitter, with-

Dennis Clendenning getting two hits - a single and triple.

Johnson rapped a pair of singles and a couple of doubles while Rob Bray and Sam Varchagen each had three hits off of loser Gary Morton.

Fiesta Lanes exploded for nine runs to break open a close game and put down Bruce's Towing 19-7 as Bob Eisminger hammered a homer, singled and had three RBIs off of loser Dale Jurcism who also gave up three hits to Don Boone and Brian Markorick.

Greg Coulton led the loser's attack with a homer, double and a pair of singles. Teammate Yves Schymanski had two singles. Dave Wilkes tripled for the losers whose record slipped to 5-4 on the year.

Animal Farm scored five times in the first inning and Chuck Howton tossed a four-hitter as the fourth place team jolted Golden Spike Lounge 8-2 for its sixth triumph in nine starts. Howton scattered four hits - all singles to Greg Lehan, Jim Green, and Jerry Delaney who had two for the game. Jerry Tapp and Jim Davis split four singles off of loser Dave Cardinas.

Westland Florist erupted for nine runs in the first inning and easily earned its fourth win, a 26-3 decision over Extra Point Bar. Bob Kozma had a field day against loser Morton who gave up an over-the-fence homer, triple and a pair of singles to the slugger. Jim Mijal, the winning pitcher, checked in with three hits and Bill Langley missed hitting for the cycle when he failed to homer.

Mijal also gave up his share of hits. Don Howard pounded out three singles and Steve Quick and Doug Hill each had two singles.

Fiesta Lanes went on a scoring spree in the third inning and put 13 runs on the board then went on to humiliate County Mounties 26-7 as John Bullard sliced five hits, including a triple and a pair of doubles for the winners. Loser Ed Lindberg, who gave up a total of 27 hits, also yielded three hits apiece to Ken Piehi and Bob Eisminger.

Of pitcher John Temple's 13 hits, three went to Greg Morris and two each to Barry Healy and Bill Durkee.

Romulus prepares for LL tourney

Northwest Detroit, Redford and Taylor little leaguers will get a taste of Romulus hospitality this week as North sets the stage for its inaugural tournament.

The local Little League organization will put an All-Star team up against its rivals who are due in town on July 19 for a three-day series. Games will be played at the newly-constructed North baseball complex located at Henry Ruff behind Beverly Park.

Northwest Detroit and Romulus are paired in the opening game scheduled for 3:30 p.m. while the nightcap will feature Taylor and Redford. The two winners will play the following day, again at 3:30 p.m. The losers will be pitted in a consolation game slated for July 21.

Charlie Blanton has been selected to manage the North entry and the team is coached by Robert Weslin.

Village Bar widens lead

Pittman's blows title chance

Pittman's last chance to derail undefeated Village Bar's title express in the Wayne Class B softball league ended in disaster for the title hopeful.

Ahead 4-0 for three innings, the second place Pittman's gave up five runs in each of the fourth and sixth innings and bowed to the title-bound Village Bar contingent 13-8.

The Class B leader has won all 13 of its games and widened the gap between it and the second place Pittman's by two full games.

Losing pitcher Tim Rize held the barmen scoreless for three innings, then Lee Calloway and the Brewis brothers - Mike and Rick - went to work. Before it was all over, Calloway had a homer and single and drove in three runs. Rick had three singles while Mike laced a single and double.

Mike Brewis, the winning pitcher, gave up 13 hits. Mike Lipski banged out four singles. Teammate Greg Mason sliced three singles.

The Rangers and Rod Ruddy's continued their duel for third place. The Rangers hung on to that spot with a comfortable 10-3 victory over B-B Softball, while Ruddy's also made it seven out of 13 with a 7-4 victory over Massey-Ferguson.

The Rangers built up an 8-0 lead before exchanging a pair of runs with B-B in the fourth, then coasting to victory. Losing pitcher Bob Rowland, who collected two hits, gave up three hits to Jerry Jodlowsky and two hits to winning hurler, Bob Teague. Teague also was tagged for a single and double by Jeff Lambert.

Marty LaPorte's single and triple sparked Ruddy's to the win over Massey's. He drove in two runs which paved the way for pitcher Don Manderville's defeat. Bill Coleman, the winner, served up two singles to Bill Rackovich.

The Explorers scored five runs in the second inning and added four more in the third en route to a 16-10 victory over seventh-place Daring Auto Parts. Loser Jeff Jekowsky was tagged for 20 hits. Keith Owens collected a homer and triple and drove in three runs. Rick Thompson and Jim Wethington each had four hits for the winners.

Wethington was the winning pitcher. He was tagged for 14 hits, three of those were singles off the bat of Al Palazzo.

In White Softball Division

Westland Party sweats it out

While their counterparts atop of the Minor 'Red' and Minor 'Blue' Divisions are living it up, Westland Party is having problems shaking off a pair of determined teams in the Westland Parks and Recreation's 'White' Division as the campaign heads into the stretch.

A 12-9 victory over Jamies enabled Westland Party to stay on top of the league thanks to a 7-1 over-all record. But closing in on the front-runners are All-Star Sports which is 6-1, and, despite the loss, Jamies still is very much alive in the title race. They're 6-2 on the season.

Westland Party pounced on Jamies' hurler Bob Leshak for four runs in the first inning in their recent showdown and hung on despite frequent attempts by the loser to overcome the leads. Jamies scored three runs in the bottom of the second and trailed 5-3 after three innings. A 6-run outburst by the league leader turned the tide and washed away Jamies' chances of catching the leader.

Ray Brewer and Ron Halis each had three hits off of Leshak who was tagged for a couple of two-baggers and two RBIs by Halis. Bill Fuller also drove home two runs with two doubles.

Scott Fowler's single and triple and three RBIs off of winner Halis led the loser's attack. Dan Shannon and Gary Davis each had two hits off of Halis.

In other games, McCurdy's Optical came-from-behind to put down Town & Country Bikes 19-7 to even its record to .500 (4-4). McCurdy's received four hits and three RBIs from Joe Reynolds. John Johnson and Rich Dittmar also contributed three hits apiece to the winner's cause.

Winning hurler Ed Spontack, who gave up a total of nine hits, yielded three singles to Dennis Lazorka who batted in three runs. Bob Kerluik and Mike O'Grady each chipped in with two hits.

Loser Larry Gillelan was touched up for 16 hits.

Progressive Metal, seated in fourth place, came up with two runs in the bottom of the seven to edge Hamm's Bears 7-6. Progressive knocked out 16 hits off of loser Tony Kierschke who was tagged for three hits by Tom Doupe, two each by Greg Kelly and Bob Mink.

Gary Quinn's homer and single led Hamm's attack on winner Ted Rize who split four singles between Gary Lubinslay and Mike McManamon.

SHARON RASCKE

City champs

Managing to win 13 of 14 games this season, the Crickets of the Central East League, captured the 1979 Westland City Championship recently. The victory came on the wake of claiming Central East and American League titles. They downed the Cougars 9-6 for the American League pennant, then edged the Robins 4-3 in the city championship game. The team is managed by Helen Runkle and coached by Kevin Whitehead. Members of the team include Lisa

Undefeated Warriors zero in on crown

Up by three full games over their closest rivals, the Westland Warriors began mop-up operations in the Westland Minor 'Blue Division' in preparation for the city playoffs.

The Warriors whizzed to their 10th consecutive victory last week by bombarding Roeder's Tropical 13-2 as winning pitcher Larry McConnell fired a six-hitter.

McConnell gave up two singles to Tony Simmons who knocked in one run. Gary Kowalske and Joe Richardson scored after getting aboard on singles. Cal Sailer was charged with the loss as the Warriors compiled 17 hits off of losing Roeder pitcher. Lonnie Ruthig, Chuck Ruthig and Jim Devlin each had two hits.

Meanwhile, Jon's Goodtime Bar unleashed a 23-hit attack against Playmate Lounge and pitcher John Harris to chalk up their fifth win in nine starts, 18-11. Russ Morine drilled four hits, two landing over-the-fence for homers. He also knocked in four runs. Bob Blair and Cliff Williamson each had three hits. One of Williamson's hits was good for a triple.

Terry Taft had his hands full. He managed to survive a 17-hit Playmate assault which featured homer runs by Arn Winters and Rick Mopewh who drove in three runs. Mike Webb finished up with a single and triple.

Interstate Transmission scored nine times in the fourth inning en route to a lopsided 16-2 victory over Local 25. Winning pitcher Rick Powell missed recording the shutout when the union people tallied twice in the fourth thanks to a double by Matt Graf and John Zachowski's single.

Chet Pickens collected three hits, including a homer and chased home two runs, while Norm Sinclair had a single and roundtripper off of loser Jim Warner who also served up a single and double to Terry Martin.

Roeder's spotted J.C. Penney two runs in the first inning, then came on like gangbusters to whip the last place team 18-5 as Brady Rice ripped one of Ron Martindale's pitches for a homer. Rice also had a triple and a couple of singles for three RBIs. Skip Johnson chipped in with two doubles and Cal Sailer socked three singles.

Winner Gary Kowalske was tagged for 13 hits, including a triple and single by Tim Vance. Teammates Kim Hylton and Tim Puchalski split four hits.

Meanwhile, over in the Community Organizational League, the Post Office and WAOA continue to set the pace. Both remain in a first place deadlock (7-2) after nine games.

WAOA gave up four runs in the first inning but came back and nipped Westland Hockey 10-6 to hang on to its share of first, while the Post Office shut the doors on Dad's Athletic Club, 9-3.

WAOA hurler Bob Kost survived a 13-hit attack by the hockey people who received three hits from Ron Tyranski and two each from Gary Naumoff and Bill Jones who singled and doubled and knocked in two runs.

Loser Randy Griffin had his problems with Randy Clark, George Gilles and Bob Kaump. Clark ripped off four hits, including a pair of doubles. Gilles and Kaump split six singles between them.

Cliff Orr strung together six scoreless innings before giving up the three runs to the dads who pounded out 10 hits. Hank Blayer and Tom Kolnitys each had three, Kolnitys's were all two-baggers.

John Moliner hit for the rare cycle: single, double, triple and homer off of loser Kolnityz who also delivered three singles to Dave Mills and two hits to Terry Martin.

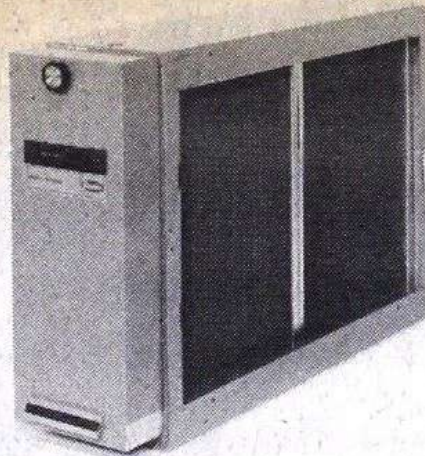

In the only other score, the Jaycees Gold Chips were awarded a 7-0 victory when their colleagues, the Jaycee Blue Chips, were "no-shows" for their scheduled game.

Presidential Tourney champs

With the pieces falling together at the right time, the Senators, who were sporting a so-so 6-7 over-all record, won four straight to capture the Presidential Little League Baseball Championship in Van Buren Township. Members of Coach Darryl Berg's team (kneeling, from left) include: Allen Lopez, Greg Lynch, Tom Sumner, Adam Theeke, Charlie Charleton, Jerry Sumner and Jeff

In Van Buren League

Senators win LL crown

The Presidential Baseball Tournament apparently was just what Coach Darryl Berg and his Senators needed.

The Senators, coasting along on a mediocre 6-7 regular season record, put everything together last week, swept four games and captured the coveted Presidential Little League title in Van Buren Township.

"We had our problems during the regular season," admitted Berg, a former Belleville High griddier who has been coaching little league baseball for the past several years. "The tournament apparently was what we needed to get things together."

The Senators clashed with the Rangers in the championship game and won a 16-13 slugfest. The lead changed hands six times, but six Senator runs in the fourth and four in the fifth turned the tide for the Senators and washed out the Rangers' plans of winning the championship.

Jeff Luft, Greg McDonald, Allen

Lopez each had three hits for the winners while Lopez and Luft combined for nine runs batted in.

Bobby Mullins and Ken Krukaw paced the losers' attack as each laced three hits.

Greg Sandusky survived the Rangers' hitting assault to get credit for the victory. He received capable relieve help from Bobby Pansey.

The four consecutive tournament victories lifted the Senators to a 10-7 won-lost record for the season.

singles for the winners while mate Sue Ollis banged out two singles and two RBIs.

Loser Lynn Dupek gave up a total of 16 hits, while Barb McRobert was tagged for seven. Two of those went to Dupek while Cathy Gillette and Tonya Riggs each had run-scoring singles for the losers.

The County Mounties lived it up at the expense of sixth place Rocco's 15-2. Winning hurler Jeanne Hamilton scattered eight hits, two of those going to Cindy Mobley. Doris Madar's double scored one of Rocco's runs.

Doris Madar was charged with the loss. She gave up a total of 18 hits including a pair of triples and a double to Dawn Lalonde who accounted for three RBIs. Norann Lyou stroked three singles and Debra Pendergrass laced two hits.

In the only other game, the Unlimited scored in the top of the fourth and collected two more in the fifth and went on to edge Player Lounge 9-7. Shelly Phillips and Bridget Waugh split six hits - all

All-Area hurler's stats among NCAA best

Two Alma College pitchers, one a former All-Area hurler from Westland, are in the top 20 nationwide for earned run average in the NCAA Division III colleges last spring, according to official baseball statistics just released by the NCAA.

Bill Bardwell, a sophomore from Westland, is third with a 1.17 ERA and Tom Cornelson, a sophomore from Flint, is 15th with a 1.91 ERA. Within the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA), Cornelson had a 4.2 record and a 0.93 and Bardwell had a 3-1 record and a 0.89 ERA.

"Our opponents in the MIAA batted .174 against our pitching," said Alma's head coach Bill Klenk, "and averaged roughly four hits per 7-inning game."

Opponents' ERA against Alma was 1.01. Alma finished second in the MIAA with a 9-3 record.

Both pitchers were All-MIAA last year. Cornelson on the first team and Bardwell made it on the second team.

Cornelson set a school record for the fewest walks per innings pitched with 13 walks over 54 2-3 innings. He also had 34 strikeouts.

Bardwell's best performance came in a game lost 1-0 to Hope College in the ninth inning. He pitched eight innings of no-hit ball. That pitching contributed to his pitching statistics being the highest performance stats for pitching that Alma has ever reported to the NCAA, said Klenk.

"Both Bardwell and Cornelson pitch exceptionally well. Their statistics support that," Klenk said.

Bardwell, a 1977 graduate of Livonia Churchill High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bardwell, 37815 Joy Road, Westland.

Canton seeks netters for tournament

Backed by the success of their first tournament, the Canton Parks and Recreation Department has set the wheels in motion for its second Open Tennis Tournament of the summer.

The tournament will be held on August 10-12 at the Plymouth Canton High School.

The tournament is open to any player in the following divisions: Juniors (18 and under), men's, women's and mixed doubles. Players will be able to participate in one singles and two doubles events.

Registration fee is $2 for singles and $3 per doubles teams. Fees are payable by check or money order, made out to Canton Township, or may be brought in to the Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

Further information about the tournament may be obtained by telephoning tournament manager, Jeff Holderness, at 397-1000, extension 268.

Hot shot

Terry Duerod, Detroit Pistons' 1979 third-round draft choice, is the third leading all-time scorer at the University of Detroit behind Romulus' great, Johnny Long, and Dave DeBusschere and just ahead of Terry Tyler.

Collins clan gathers for birthday-reunion

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

On Saturday, July 7, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins of Borgman Street were co-hosts with the latter's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyde of South Lyon, for a family reunion and 76th birthday celebration for their grandmother, Mrs. Irene Davis from Columbus, Ga. Present for the gala affair and buffet dinner held at the Hyde home in South Lyon, were 125 members of the Legee family coming from Columbus, Ga.; Miami, Fla.; Batavia, N.Y.; Ogden, Utah; Birmingham, Ala., and Columbus, Ohio.

Michigan relatives came from Traverse City, Vanderbilt, Flint, Carleton, Flat Rock, Tecumseh, New Port, Redford, Detroit, Livonia, Westland, Ypsilanti, Whitmore Lake, Hamburg, Brighton, South Lyon and Belleville.

A friend, Mrs. Bea Caminidi from Tempe, Ariz., has been a guest this past week of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Budd of Expressway Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Crowley Street returned home on Thursday of last week after several days spent at Paradise in the Upper Peninsula. Enroute north they attended a bridal shower for a relative at Algonac on Saturday, then continued on to Flint where they joined their son, Larry, and his wife, Dianne for the trip north. While at Paradise they visited friends, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boreberding.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Collins of Borgman Street returned home last Saturday from Vian, Okla. where they had been guests of relatives for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Charles Nanasy of Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brewer of Oldsmar, Fla. were luncheon guests last Tuesday of the ladies' aunt, Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ketchum of Harmony Lane spent several days over the Fourth with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Truesdell at Rose Lake. They also spent a day at Sleeping Bear and visited friends in the Leelanau Peninsula.

After having been a patient at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor for a week undergoing various tests, Mrs. Thomas Stevens returned to her home on East Huron River Drive on Friday, July 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parker of South Service Drive and grandchildren, Courtney and David Sikes of Crandall Court spent several days last week at their cottage at Glennie.

After having spent the past three weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potts of West Wabash Street, Mrs. Lewis Allen and daughter, Sandy, left for their home at Pleasanton, Calif., last Friday.

Grandson, Steven Glenn, remained to spend the rest of the summer with his maternal grandparents and other relatives.

Mrs. Helen Wilson of Liberty Street returned home on Wednesday, July 4, from Tampa, Fla. where she had spent several days with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fritz.

Betty Fulton.

Rebecca and David Skeans of South Service Drive were guests this past week of their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Becky Skeans at Martin, Ky.

On Sunday, July 8, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road were in Belding where they attended the wedding of Karen Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Moore of Greenville, and Terry M. Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry M. Barker Sr. of Greenville, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Belding. After 4 o'clock ceremony they attended the reception held at the Cross Bow in Bostwick Lake

N.Y., where he has been transferred by the Gould Company.

Mother Nature furnished a beautiful sunny afternoon, July 8, for the surprise celebration honoring James and Shelia Shelton of Romulus on their silver wedding anniversary. Held by friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wint in Van Buren Township, the party included some 25 guests who enjoyed the lawn party.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Baehr of Savage Road were among members of the Adiska family who attended the annual reunion held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Adiska in Milan on Wednesday, July 4.

Burton Smith of Tyler Road has been a medical patient at Beyer Memorial Hospital at Ypsilanti this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street and granddaughter, Janet Tucholski, were last Wednesday guests of the Clayton's daughter, Mrs. Hugh Munce and sons of Brighton.

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street was among those who attended the annual picnic of the Strand-Weeks Club, O.E.S., held at the home of Past Grand Matron, Frances Strand, at Jackson.

Three couples planning to wed

The engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Loretta Marie Garner, and William George Harlan Jr., is announced by Mrs. Margaret R. Temple of 38651 Westvale, Romulus.

A 1977 graduate of Romulus High School, Miss Garner is employed at Lonnie and Woody's Recapping Company in Westland.

Her fiancé, the son of Mrs. Rosemary Harlan of 41021 Michigan Ave., Canton, resides at 29500 Beechwood, Garden City. A 1966 graduate of West Senior High School in Garden City, he currently is working at Watt's Tire Service.

The young couple plan to be married Aug. 11 at the bride's mother's home in Romulus.

GRISHABER - TOWLES

Doreen Grishaber and Rickie Ray Towles, both of Belleville, are engaged and making plans for an autumn wedding. The First United Methodist Church of Belleville has been reserved for their Oct. 12 altar date.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Harry J. Grishaber of Liberty Street and Elizabeth A. Grishaber of Belleville Road, Belleville. A 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, she is now working at the Ford Motor Company in Ypsilanti.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Towles of 848 Sarah, Pinkney, the prospective bridegroom graduated from Willow Run High School and attended Wayne State University for three years. He, too, is an employee of the Ford Motor Company in Ypsilanti.

KORNACKI - DUDICK

Some 75 relatives, friends and neighbors were on hand July 1 when the engagement of Carol Kornacki of Taylor and Daniel Dudick of Belleville was announced.

The occasion was a reception honoring Dudick's graduation from Wayne State University College of Pharmacy held at the home of his parents, John and Delphine Dudick of East Huron River Drive, Belleville.

The bride-elect, the daughter of Stanley and Florence Kornacki of Taylor, is a 1979 graduate of Wayne State University College of Business Administration. She currently is employed as an accountant at the World Headquarters of Burroughs Corporation in Detroit.

Her fiancé, having completed his internship at Andrews Pharmacy of Belleville, is now working at Minders Pharmacy in Garden City.

As yet no date has been set for the wedding.

Women of Moose install officers

Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 1135, installed officers for the fiscal year on June 30.

In a beautiful ceremony, under the guiding hand of chairman Geraldine Mills, installing Regent Fern Koeppel, installing Chaplain Annabell Sobolewski, installing Guide Elizabeth Willis and installing musician Martha Morton, the following women took their oath of office: Sr. Regent, Lois Anguilm; Jr. Regent, Doris Martilla; Jr. Grad Regent, Marietta Kerner; Chaplain, Verjean Mellon; Recorder, Frances Elliot; Treasurer, Hazel Meixner; and appointed officers: Guide, Betty Harden; Asst. Guide, Mary LaForge; Sentinel, Marge Grubbe; and Argus, Pamela Mills.

Chairmen installed were: College of Regents, Geraldine Mills; Mooseheart, Julian Gahan; Moosehaven, Connie Pastore, and Star Recorder, Helen Jacobs. Chairmen who were not present will be installed at the first meeting they attend.

Deputy Grand regent, Jane Carter from Wyandotte, gave a talk on Mooseheart and Moosehaven and presented the new Sr. Regent with a lei she had brought back from her recent trip to Hawaii. Doug Harden, pro-teming for the Governor of the Loyal Order, spoke to the ladies and presented the Jr. Grad. Regent with a gift from the Loyal Order. A lunch was served followed by a dance.

Monday July 9 the College of Regents Committee presented its chapter night. Collegians from Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Melvindale, Lincoln Park, Wyandotte and Belleville exemplified the ritual honoring Frances Elliot who had her green tassel exchanged by Fern Koeppel for a red one (denoting one year as a collegian). Elizabeth Willis was invested with her red stole by Elsie Parry (denoting four years as a collegian).

New collegian Mary Frazier, who just received her degree at Mooseheart on June 2, told of her trip there. She also presided as Sr. Regent for the evening. One candidate was enrolled - Sherrie Cullen, sponsored by Dorris Martilla.

Collegian Joyce Bekker from Ann Arbor, who is a member of the Board of Regents, and Deputy Grand Regent, Jane Carter from Wyandotte, were present.

Wheat germ summer pep-ups

For delicious energy to fuel summer fun and activities, count on wheat germ. Energizing munchies and refreshing drinks made with nutritious wheat germ are always wholesome healthy treats. They provide valuable nutrients along with appealing flavor.

These snack ideas from Kretschmer Kitchens were developed with three things in mind - taste, nutrition and convenience. One of the most popular snacks is wheat germ saucepan bars. And they're easy enough for beginning cooks to make. As the name implies, the cookies are mixed in a saucepan. Melt the butter, then mix in brown sugar, sour cream, wheat germ, dates and other good things. Spread the dough in a pan and bake. Melted semisweet chocolate, wheat germ and chopped walnuts give the baked bars a rich, crunchy topping.

For liquid refreshment, pineapple wheat germ shake is delicious to serve with the bars or all by itself. It's just pineapple juice, banana, yogurt and wheat germ whirled up in the blender. This is such a refreshing drink. It can also be a light satisfying breakfast or a tote in a thermos lunch break.

As health conscious cooks know, wheat germ is one of the best snack foods you can eat. It is an excellent source of protein, vitamins and minerals - all essential nutrients to keep you looking and feeling your best. And it is so easy to use - just measure, pour or sprinkle wheat germ from the jar. Sealed jars of wheat germ are always fresh and flavorful because they are vacuum packed. There are no additives or preservatives to interfere with the natural mellow taste of wheat germ.

Wheat Germ Date Bars

- 1/4 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar & honey
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream

- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 1/4 cups flour
- 1/4 cup chopped dates
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 (6-ounce) package semisweet chocolate pieces
- 1-3 cup finely chopped walnuts

Reserve 2 tablespoons wheat germ for topping. Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat and stir in sugar, sour cream, egg and vanilla. Add remaining wheat germ, flour, dates, baking powder, cinnamon, cloves and salt. Stir until combined. Turn into greased 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from oven. Sprinkle with chocolate pieces. Bake 5 minutes longer. Spread chocolate evenly over top. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons wheat germ and walnuts. Cool. Cut into bars. Makes 3 dozen.

Pineapple Wheat Germ Shake

- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 small banana, cut in chunks
- 1 (8-ounce) carton plain yogurt
- 1-3 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar & honey
- 3 ice cubes, cracked or crushed

Combine all ingredients in electric blender. Whirl until smooth and blended about 1 minute. Serve in glasses. Garnish with pineapple spear and mint sprig if desired. Makes 3 cups.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE GORS

Newlyweds honeymoon in Nashville

Some 150 relatives and friends gathered June 29 for the wedding of Patricia Kuhr and George Gors, the first to be performed in the historic chapel moved to Belleville last year from Dearborn Heights by the Belleville United Presbyterian Church.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Sullivan of 811 N. York, Dearborn, the bride was escorted up the aisle by her father. She wore a dotted swiss gown designed with a scoop neckline, short sleeves and a flounced hemline which terminated in a chapel sweep. Her wide brimmed hat was accented with frothy tulle and she carried a colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations tied with matching ribbon.

The double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. was conducted by The Rev. Robert McCreight and music was furnished by Brad and Glen Davidson.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Helen Jamison of Boston, Mass. as matron of honor and Cheryl Fain, Laura Kuhr, the bride's daughter, and Melissa Howard, all of Belleville. The quartet, dressed in blue toe-touching frocks, carried bouquets of blue carnations as they walked up the aisle.

The bridegroom, the son of George Gors of Lake in the Woods, Ypsilanti, asked the bride's brother, Tom Sullivan of Trenton, to serve as best man. Groomsmen were the bride couple's sons, Tom and Jim Kuhr and Rick Gors.

At the reception which followed at the Lemontree Club House, guests were greeted by the bride's mother, Mrs. Sullivan, in a formal gown of aqua chiffon to which she pinned her corsage of white carnations.

Since returning from a week-long honeymoon in Nashville, Tenn., the newlyweds have taken up residence in Ypsilanti.

A Dearborn High School graduate, the bride is employed by Van Buren Township as an ordinance supervisor. Her husband, an employee of the Ford Motor Company at Rawsonville, holds a degree in engineering from Lawrence Technological Institute.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Nickerson Farms Restaurant in Belleville.

Food service students to benefit from grant

The Ann Arbor Conference and Visitors Bureau has presented Washtenaw Community College with a $1,000 grant to endow the College's scholarship fund.

The grant is to be used to assist students studying in the food service and hotel management program at the College.

The College has named the grant "The Clint Castor, Donald H. Roberts, Herman Weber Award" in honor of "three pioneers and leaders in the hospitality industry in Ann Arbor," noted WCC president Gunder A. Myran in accepting the grant for the College.

Clint Castor, Sr. is the founder of Ann Arbor's Pretzel Bell; Donald Roberts is the primary owner of both of Ann Arbor's Holiday Inns; Herman Weber began Weber's in Ann Arbor.

"We look forward to the growth of this scholarship fund in the years to come and to the development of new hospitality industry leaders under the auspices of this scholarship," explains William J. Gudenau, chairman of the Hospitality Division of the Conference Bureau. Questions regarding the College's culinary arts program or about the available scholarships can be directed to WCC staff at (313) 973-3584.

Used books needed for sale

Friends of the Romulus Library will hold a used book sale in September and are hoping to alert the community to its needs for "merchandise."

Anyone with hardback or paperback books — be they text or comic, mystery or reference — or used records which they might like to donate, is asked to take them to the Romulus Public Library anytime during working hours — 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Shut-ins or those lacking transportation may call Gloria Chandler at 941-2678 for pick-up.

Salads fill the bill

BANANA SPLIT SALAD

3 servings
Salad greens
1 carton (16 oz.) cottage cheese
1 banana
Fresh lemon juice
Nuts, finely chopped
Honeydew melon
Cantaloupe
Watermelon balls
Green grapes
Strawberries
Fresh mint
1 carton (8 oz.) strawberry OR raspberry flavored yogurt

Arrange salad greens on serving dish. Space three mounds of cottage cheese on greens. Cut banana in half and each half lengthwise; dip in lemon juice. Arrange only at each end of serving dish; sprinkle with nuts. Cut six thin slices from each melon; arrange around cottage cheese along with watermelon, grapes and strawberries. Garnish with mint. Blend yogurt with fork until smooth. Serve separately to spoon over salad.

SHRIMP AND SHELL SALAD

Yield: 8 cups

1 pound frozen peeled and deveined shrimp
8 ounces small pasta shells
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped celery
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup thinly sliced radishes one-third cup chopped green pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped green onion
1 cup dairy sour cream

1 cup cottage cheese

1 tsp. seasoned salt

$\frac{1}{8}$ tsp. pepper

Cook shrimp and shells, separately, according to package directions. Rinse both with cold water; drain well. Toss with celery, radishes, green pepper and onion. Combine sour cream, cottage cheese, seasoned salt and pepper; fold into shrimp mixture. Chill 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend. Serve on salad greens.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

When one is, admittedly, not a "morning person", one (this one) should never, never attempt to pen a "potpourri" missive at 7:45 in the A.M.

Even before the paper came out last Wednesday, I was painfully aware of a rather stupid omission (the title of a book, for instance). But then -- to come to work and have one's office cronies snicker about still another deletion and have the temerity to blame it on my being a GRANDMOTHER!

Whell! (and you're supposed to say that like Jack Benny -- wh-ell!) -- you can accuse me of playing with a warped hockey puck, having my brains fried by the sun and having my pilot light go out BUT -- don't blame my forgetfulness on that poor innocent little fella in Evanston, hear?

So I failed to mention what book I was talking about and so I forgot to list celery in the Cream of Cauliflower Soup ingredients. Reaching the plateau of grand-mamahood doesn't automatically make one dotty -- this gal reached that point-of-no-return long before Matthew J. arrived on the scene. What they don't realize is -- last week was National Amnesia Week...or was it the week before...or is it this week...?

(And, ahem, Mrs. C. of C. -- who was past the deadline for submitting news to this desk last week? And who's not even an EXPECTANT grandma!)

Now let's see -- it seems as if there was something more to add here...Oh, yes, "Confessions of a Muckraker" and 1 cup chopped celery.

A favorite salad at our house (this one is Sue's) is "Wilted Lettuce" and with gardens producing some of the necessities it seemed an apropos moment to share this with other salad buffs.

WILTED LETTUCE

- 1 head lettuce, cut in fork-size pieces or several cups leaf lettuce
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced scallions, green onions or 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 tablespoon snipped fresh herbs (parsley, dill, etc.)
- 5 bacon slices, diced
- 1/4 cup bacon fat
- 1/4 cup vinegar (I prefer wine vinegar)
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 1/2 teaspoons granulated sugar (I use more)
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Combine lettuce, scallions and herbs in a salad bowl. Fry bacon in skillet over low heat until crisp, pouring off fat as it cooks. Drain bacon; crumble into salad bowl. Return 1/4 cup bacon fat to skillet; add vinegar, mustard, sugar, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Bring to rolling boil, stirring. Immediately pour over salad; toss well. Sprinkle with hard-cooked eggs; serve at once. Makes 4 generous servings.

DON'T FIGHT IT! Might as well get used to it! The metric system is with us and before we know it recipes will call for 250 ml of milk. That means milliliters and 250 of them equals one cup. Good luck to all of us.

TEE TIME...

DICK: This is the first time I've played with a caddy who's only six years old.

STAN: You'll be crazy about him... he still can't count over 10.

Each week as I tool back and forth to work I've been exploring new routes between Tecumseh and Belleville and Tecumseh and Wayne. There are half a dozen different ways to reach my destination and most of them cut through acres and acres of farmland.

It's been fascinating to watch the progress of the crops from week to week and now I fully understand how "some people" could take up garden-watching as a spectator sport.

It not only is interesting to observe the varied soil and crop routines and the quilt-like designs of the vegetable layouts but the way people care (or don't care) for their homes and lawns.

One spot that slows me down each week has one of the most unsightly houses and yards enroute...a mess...with absolutely THE most beautiful garden along the way.

I don't quite understand the paradox.

Here's an excellent way to make the most of your microwave if you, to, are fortunate enough to own one. The last time I baked a pie this worked and, now that the berry bushes are producing fillings like mad, it's time to bake those pies and get 'em frozen.

BUT -- with a microwave you no longer freeze the whole pie. Use the first warm pieces for your evening dessert and then let the remainder cool completely. Cut in wedges, place on paper dessert plates, cover with plastic wrap or tuck in plastic bags, and place in fast freeze compartment.

Then whenever anyone in the family is hungry for a piece of homemade pie he or she can just pop an individual slice in the microwave (according to directions in your own manual) and satisfy the old sweet tooth.

Remember, though, if you used those wired twisties, be sure to remove before baking or you'll see a few fireworks.

THE BOTTOM LINE: The reward of energy, enterprise and thrift -- is taxes.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

Musicians and composers do not have an easy time supporting themselves while waiting for artistic inspiration or recognition. One of the few major supporters is the National Endowment of the Arts. Private foundations also support artists in developing or working on everything from traditional modes of music to more avant garde and experimental music that might not even be played on what would be recognized as musical instruments. Private contributions to musical organizations are now becoming more important as other funding decreases.

At DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484, you will find an outstanding selection of fine pianos and organs. To help you make this decision of which instrument would be best for your family, we offer a rental purchase plan...in other words, try before you buy. "Full Line," Master Charge and Visa. Rainbow Girls attend Assembly

Rainbow Girls from Michigan accompanied Mother Linda Freiman, Supreme Deputy of the Supreme Assembly of Rainbow for Girls in Michigan, to St. Louis, Mo. where they attended the 53rd Grand Assembly on July 7-10. Grand Worthy Advisor, Ruth Ann Kerr of Ferndale; Grand Drill Leader, Nancy New of Roseville; Grand Representative to Missouri Terry Lull of Roseville, and Grand Worthy Associate Advisor Roberta Welt of Willis Road, Belleville returned home last Wednesday afternoon.

Trio returns from Pennsylvania visit

Recently returned from a vacation in Washington, Pa. are Mrs. Loretta E. Lee of Morton Avenue, Belleville, and grandchildren, Colette and Wally Rochowiak of Tyler Road.

The trio visited with Mrs. Lee's mother and the children's great-grandmother, Mrs. Estelle Szalek. During their stay a Fourth of July picnic was planned by Mrs. Lee's sister, Thelma Friend in Canonsburg, Pa. Some 30 members of the family attended including a niece and her family from California and a nephew from Harrisburg, Pa.

The group also celebrated the graduation of a great-nephew, Shawn Zwigert, and Wally Rochowiak's 10th birthday and then watched the fireworks. Volleyball, horseshoes, cards and lots of visiting were also part of the day.

Lawn and garden guide for July

Ah, summertime! The spring planting rush is over and the bulk of the harvest is yet to come. But there's still plenty to do in the lawn and garden this month. Michigan State University Extension specialists say the following activities are timely in July:

— Watch for aphids and leafhoppers damaging honeylocust and maple. Give ladybugs and other natural predators a chance to control aphids. (Any spray you use against the aphids will also kill their enemies.) In severe cases, use a malathion spray. For leafhoppers, use Sevin.

— Lacebugs on anemones, azalea and sycamore may be controlled with malathion or Sevin sprayed on the undersides of the leaves.

— A general yellowing of foliage on spruce and hemlock may indicate spider mite problems. Shake branches over white paper paper to reveal the tiny pests as moving, barely visible specks. A kelthane spray should control them.

— Sycamores, oaks and other trees that have lost leaves to anthracnose should be watered and fertilized to stimulate them to produce new foliage.

— Fertilize trees before Aug. 1. Fertilizing later may stimulate new growth that will be susceptible to winter injury.

— During dry weather, water trees and shrubs thoroughly once a week, especially newly planted ones.

— Check daily on houseplants set outside for the summer. Plants in clay pots may need watering once or twice a day. Plants may also become infested with insects or infected by mildew or other plant diseases. Control pests as soon as you detect them to keep them from getting out of hand.

— Cut back poinsettia shoots to about four inches. Cuttings may be rooted to produce new, blooming plants by Christmas.

— Control perennial weeds like bentgrass, quackgrass and tall fescue now, especially if you're planning on renovating an old lawn or seeding a new one in August or September. Use lawn herbicides carefully to avoid injuring trees, shrubs, flowers and garden crops.

— To get Zoysia grass out of your lawn, kill it with a systemic herbicide and remove the sod. If you don't, it will regenerate from underground stems.

— During the hot weather of July and August, raise the mowing height of your lawn by an inch or so. This will strengthen the plants and encourage root formation.

— Sharpen mower blades occasionally. Dull blades tear the grass, and tearing reduces vigor and turf quality. It can also make the lawn look brown.

— Sod webworms feeding in your lawn may cause irregular brown patches. Check the grass near the soil surface, the thatch layer and the top inch of soil for silken webs and tunnels close to the soil surface, fresh green clippings and green fecal pellets. Watch for "millers" — adult sod webworm moths — zigzagging across the lawn around dusk, too. If sod webworms are responsible for the damage to your lawn, spray with Sevin, diazinon or Aspon following label directions. To reduce the potential for damage, keep the lawn healthy. A neglected, diseased or drought-stressed lawn is more susceptible to sod webworm damage than a well watered, properly fertilized lawn.

— Bluegrass billbug may be damaging lawns now. The small — one-fourth inch — dark brown, hard-backed, long-nosed bug chews up the grass crowns and kills the grass in spots around the lawn. Damaged grass pulls up easily, and a brown, sawdust-like material can be found in the crown. The best time to spray for billbugs is May. Diazinon applied now may offer some control, however.

— Fungus diseases of lawns often show up in hot weather. Get expert help to identify turf problems before you try to treat them.

— Give light applications of nitrogen to lawns with fusarium blight — one-half pound actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet — every three to four weeks, and frequent light waterings.

— To keep cucumbers producing, harvest fruits as soon as they're ready.

— Check tomatoes for aphids, fruitworms, hornworms and slugs. Spray with malathion to control aphids. Sevin or malathion at the bases of plants will give some control of fruitworms. (Once they are feeding inside the fruit, the damage is done.) Hand pick hornworms and destroy them. Reduce the slug problem by removing mulch and garden debris that provide cover for them.

Use slug traps — boards laid on the ground between the rows, or saucers of beer set in the garden at night. Slugs attracted to the beer will crawl in and drown. Slugs that take cover under the boards can be destroyed during the day.

— Sidedress vegetables with nitrogen at one pound per 1,000 square feet. Hold off on tomatoes, peppers, eggplant and squash — fertilize them only after they have set some fruit. Too much nitrogen before fruit set will cause a flush of foliage growth at the expense of flowers and fruits.

— Water tomatoes, peppers, eggplant and summer squash thoroughly and often enough to protect them against wide variations in soil moisture. (How often will depend on how much rain we get and how well your soil holds moisture.) This is your best defense against blossom end rot.

— Water other garden crops once a week during dry periods so the soil is wet to a depth of at least six inches.

— Spray tomato plants with Maneb, Zineb, captan or an all purpose garden fungicide labeled for tomatoes to control early and late blight and anthracnose. To avoid such problems next year plant disease-resistant varieties.

— Transplant cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli; and seed lettuce, onion, beets, beans spinach and radishes for a fall crop. Plan on storing some beets, carrots, cabbage, onions and potatoes. They keep well under home storage conditions.

— Pick faded flowers and seedpods from the larger marigolds, pansies, cosmos, snapdragons and zinnias to keep them blooming all summer. Moss rose (portulaca), petunia, verbena, dianthus and annual phlox do not need this help. Petunias, however, will benefit from having long, straggly stems cut back. This encourages them to send out side shoots and promotes flowering.

— Use malathion or Orthene to control severe aphids infestations on chrysanthemums, roses, nasturtiums and other flowers.

— If you haven't already mulched your roses, do it now.

— Continue a disease and insect control program for roses.

— Remove faded rose flowers just before the petals begin to drop.

— Irises that haven't been divided in five or six years should be dug, divided and replanted after they've finished blooming. Discard any infested with iris borers.

— Treat mildew on ivy, honeysuckle, lilac, zinnias, privet, dahlias, phlox and mums with Actidione P.M., Karathane, Piron, benomyl or sulphur at two- to four-week intervals through September.

Michigan parks offer everything under the pines

A glimpse at the north when lumber was king, peeks at moose and wolves on a Lake Superior island, and classical music amid the pines await visitors to Michigan's network of state and national recreation lands, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

From primitive Upper Peninsula campsites to modern urban-area parks, Michigan offers something for everyone this summer.

A replica of a 19th Century northern Michigan logging camp and a giant collection of artifacts including a "big wheel" once used to skid logs out of the forest draw history buffs to the Lower Peninsula's Hartwick Pines State Park near Grayling. The park also contains the last stand of virgin white and red pine in Lower Michigan, saved from the axe by a lumberman's wife.

A chance to see herds of moose and predaceous wolves draws thousands of visitors annually to Isle Royale. It is the only island national park in the contiguous 48 states and is located 73 miles north of Houghton in Lake Superior.

Campers and hikers frequently see deer, coyote, fox and even black bear in the 58,000-acre Porcupine Mountains State Park near Ontonagon, and in the 19,000-acre state park containing the picturesque Upper and Lower Tahquamenon Falls.

While visitors are unlikely to see anything wilder than ground and tree squirrels at Interlochen State Park south of Traverse City, they might encounter the strains of "Peter and the Wolf," "The Firebird," or "Swan Lake" at the adjacent National Music Camp.

At other state lands, the accent is on picnics, swimming and fun in some of Michigan's 10,000 inland lakes.

The 600-foot sandy shoreline at Pontiac Lake Recreation Area near Pontiac is billed as the state's largest man-made inland lake beach.

Other expansive inland beaches include Aloha State Park's 3,900-foot shore on Mullet Lake near Cheboygan; the mile-long sand and grass shoreline at Higgins Lake State Park near Roscommon; the 500- and 200-foot beaches of Island Lake Recreation Area near Brighton, and the 1,400-foot beach on Lake Charlevoix in Young State Park near Boyne City.

Detroit-area bathers and picnickers gather at the Huron-Clinton Metropark beaches at Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clair near Mount Clemens, Stony Creek Metropark near Utica, and at Kensington Metropark near Milford.

Formerly an Army post, Fort Custer Recreation Area near Battle Creek offers 2,962 acres of rolling woodlands and fields for day hikers.

For sun-drenched Great Lakes sand, check out crescent-shaped Tawas Point State Park on Tawas Bay and Bay City State Park on Saginaw Bay in Lake Huron, or Sterling State Park on Lake Erie's Brest Bay.

Fine examples of "Huron dunes" await visitors to Rogers City's P.H. Hoefft and Caseville's Albert E. Sleeper state parks along Lake Huron while miles of squeaky "sugar sand" delight beachcombers at Holland, Grand Haven, Ludington and Muskegon state parks on Lake Michigan.

Examples of Lake Michigan's sandy bluffs include the world's largest shifting sand dunes, reached via hiking trails or auto at the 61,000-acre Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore near Glen Haven. Others are at Warren Dunes State Park south of St. Joseph.

State recreation lands have provided anglers access to some of this state's best fishing lakes, with many near major cities.

Yankee Springs Recreation Area between Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo offers 10 lakes for fishing while Hayes State Park southeast of Jackson has fishing on two lakes set among the verdant Irish Hills.

Barely a dozen miles from each other, Newaygo State Park on the Muskegon River's Hardy Dam pond is a hotspot for walleyes and northern pike, while White Cloud State Park is only three miles from the White River, a top steelhead trout stream.

Big game anglers after salmon can launch boats at many parks bordering the Great Lakes, including J.W. Wells State Park, near the Cedar River in the Upper Peninsula's Menominee County.

These sites are just samples of the unique offerings of Michigan's federal and state lands. This year, an estimated 24 million persons will visit them to relax among the trees.

Noted wildlife artist Ken Carlson's painting of two Merriam's wild turkeys bested a field of 127 entries to win the 1979 Wild Turkey Stamp competition, recently held at the National Wild Turkey Federation's annual contest in Augusta, Ga.

Carlson's entry, entitled "Morning Roost," has been reproduced on the federation's fourth Wild Turkey Stamp, purchased voluntarily by conservationists, philatelists and private collectors. Revenues from the stamp are used for education, restoration and research.

In addition to the limited stamp issue (only 50,000 printed), a signed and numbered edition of prints (6 1/2-by 9-inch) has been produced and is available through most reputable wildlife art dealers.

Priorities established for this year's funds include research grants totaling $5,000 to be presented to Auburn University and Texas A & M University, production of 2000 trap-transfer boxes, and for the first construction phase of the nation's only Wild Turkey Research Center.

The 1979 Wild Turkey Stamp is available at $3 per stamp, $30 per sheet, while they last. A free stamp brochure is available by writing the National Wild Turkey Federation, Edgefield, S. C. 29824.

Grosse Ile group plans country fair

The Grosse Ile Township and its Business Association is recognizing the difficult labors of today's farmers by staging a country fair and parade July 27-28.

Based on the fact that in 1783, the entire island consisted of rented plots cared for by tenant farmers, the fair and parade will be dedicated and in honor of farmers.

The parade will be at 11 a.m. July 28 and young and old alike are invited to participate. Farmers and 4-H clubs are invited to display produce, live stock of all kinds, bees, wares and homemade articles.

Events will include a tractor pull, chicken roast, helicopter rides, frog races, canoe races, flea markets, ice cream social, live country music and more. Prizes of $100 for first place and three $50 second-place prizes will be awarded to parade participants.

For further information on the fair contact Jenan Mullen, 8005 Macomb Road, Grosse Ile 48138, or call her at 678-6300.

The hottest women's specialty store is coming to the Lakewood Shopping Center. We are looking for mature individuals with strong retail background to fill sales, cashier and manager trainees positions. Good company benefits. Apply in person to Howard Johnsons Motor Lodge, I-94 and Belleville road. Saturday, July 21st between 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

WHERE DO YOU GO FROM HERE?

You've taken stock of all the items your family no longer uses... you've gathered them together... now where do you go? To your telephone! That's right... just give us a call and we will help you word and place a classified ad which offers all these items for sale. It's the easy, low-cost way to get in touch with other families who can use the very items you no longer need... and it brings cash to you! Doesn't that sound like a good move?
